SENATE STIRRED BY PINCHOT'S DEFENSE OF GLAVIS

Chief Forester Approves Course of Land Office Agent in Alaska Cases.

PRESIDENT WAS MISLED

Breach of Propriety Committed by Subordinates in Giving Information to Public.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The Ballinger-Pinchot controversy today was made doubly intense by the reading in the Senate of a letter addressed by Mr. Pinchot to Senator Dolliver in which the course adopted by L. R. Glavis, with the assistance of Messrs. Price and Shaw of the bureau of forestry, was warmly approved.

In this communication the chief forester not only upheld the criticisms of Secretary Ballinger, but suggested that the President himself had been mistaken in the facts when he removed Mr. Glavis from the public service.

Mr. Pinchot's letter called Senator Hale to his feet with a severe rebuke to the chief forester for having ignored a recent order by the President directing that no subordinate officer should give information concerning affairs of the government except to his superior officers. He also suggested that the adoption of this course tended to forestall and prejudice public opinion in relation to the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Preceding this incident Senator Jones' joint resolution for an investigation of the interior department and the forestry bureau was referred to the committee on public lands, but the reference was not made until after a resolution of Senator Newlands instructing the committee on public lands to report within two weeks bills putting into effect Secretary Ballinger's recommendations in his annual report for conservation of natural resources. Newlands resolution was also referred to the committee on public lands.

While the Senate was taking this action the House declined to enter upon a discussion of the joint resolution introduced by Mr Humphrey. The resolution went over until tomorrow.

Pinchot's Letter to Dolliver.

In the Senate Mr Pinchot's letter caused a genuine sensation. In addressing his letter to Senator Dolliver Mr. Pinchot indicated that it had been written at the request of the Iowa senator, but was addressed to him as chairman of the committee on agriculture, thus making it an official document. He said that Messrs. Price and Shaw had prepared an official report upon their actions which he was transmitting to the secretary of agriculture.

"This report shows that Messrs Price and Shaw made public certain information regarding the so-called Cunningham claims for coal lands in Alaska," said Mr Pinchot.

"The effect of the publication was to direct critical public attention to the action of the interior department.

"It shows that they countenanced the publication by L R Glavis of certain facts concerning the claims after he had been dismissed from office and that in other ways they endeavored to direct public attention to the imminent danger that the Alaska coal field still in government ownership might pass forever into private hands with little or no compensation to the public."

This information, Mr Pinchot adds was of a nature proper to be made public "unless there are secrets which the people of the United States are not entitled to know concerning the source, nature and progress of claims made for portions of the public lands."

"The rumor," he said, "that the Glavis report to the President was prepared in or by the forest service is incorrect. At Glavis' request I sent Shaw as it was proper I should, to Chicago to assist him in arranging

GLAVIS IS ATTACKED IN REPORT BY WICKERSHAM

Land Office Agent Declared to Be Victim of Delusions by Attorney General.

BALLINGER EXONERATED

Secretary's Relations With the Cunningham Claimants Are Defended.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Louis R. Glavis, formerly chief of the field division of the general land office, suffered from megalomania and was not imbued with a deep sense of patriotic duty in making charges against Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger and others in connection with coal land claims in Alaska, according to Attorney General George Wickersham, whose report of September 11 on the controversy was sent to Congress today by President Taft.

Attorney General Wickersham severely arraigns Glavis in his summary of the documents submitted by Glavis and the replies thereto. All the papers in the case were sent to Congress in response to a resolution of Senator Flint of California.

Glavis charged that Secretary Ballinger aided the government's foes in the fight over the Cunningham Alaskan coal claims which are generally believed to be desired by the Guggenheim interests. It has been estimated that $1,000,000 is involved by the precedent this case will establish and the case itself.

In concluding his report, which is nearly 70,000 words in length the attorney general after charging Glavis with conduct tantamount to the suppression of documents needed in the investigation delivers this excoriation:

"Glavis' actions appear to have been founded upon a wholly exaggerated sense of his own importance and a desire for personal advancement rather than on any genuine desire to protect the interests of the government and this species of megalomania has led him to submit to you charges of improper motives and conduct against his official superiors, which in my opinion, are so unjust and unfounded as to merit his separation from the service."

Glavis' Charges

The Glavis charges were the most sensational in the shower of accusations that has marked the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

Glavis was formerly inspector of the general land office and chief of the field division. He had in charge the investigation of the Cunningham affair. He was removed some time ago by Mr Ballinger. Glavis charged officially and in formal statements and writings that certain influences were at work in an attempt to rush the hearing of the Cunningham claims case before the government was ready to defend its side.

Glavis accused besides Secretary Ballinger Commissioner of Land Office Dennett and Chief of the Field Division Schwartz both of whom are cleared by Wickersham's report together with the secretary.

On August 18 last Glavis took a summary of his charges to Chief Forester Pinchot who advised him to lay them before President Taft.

Secretary Ballinger himself requested the investigation by the attorney general, whose results are embodied in this report.

Exonerates Ballinger

Mr Wickersham completely exonerates Secretary Ballinger. He examines all the documents connected with the case. His conclusion is:

"The insinuations and charges of improper conduct are in my opinion entirely disproved. So far from taking any action to favor the Cunningham claimants the record clearly shows that Secretary Ballinger was scrupulously careful not in any respect to act upon these claims for the reason that during the summer of 1908 while he was in no manner connected with the government he had been consulted with by some of the claimants with respect to the issuance of patents and called upon Secretary Garfield for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of his department thereon. Neither his action nor any of his written or spoken expressions were favorable to these claimants. The utmost he did was to instruct the land office to promptly investigate and dispose of all pending cases.

"The suggestion that it was unlawful for Mr. Ballinger to have any professional relation with those claimants because of previous incumbency of the office of commissioner of the land office, is, in my opinion, unsound."

Cunningham Case.

Of the specific Cunningham charges the report says:

"The government has had an abundant amount of time to investigate the validity of these claims. In August, 1907 they investigated by Agents Love and Jones. They were put in Mr Glavis' hands together with the investigation of all other Alaskan coal lands locations and entries in January 1908. All the essential facts seem to have been ascertained by him in the spring of 1908. He was furnished by the land office with all the assistance he required. All efforts to induce him to bring his investigation to a conclusion

PRESIDENT TAFT SUMMONS CABINET IN SPECIAL SESSION TO CONSIDER PINCHOT'S ACTION IN "DEFYING THE LIGHTNING"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Late this afternoon after reading newspaper reports of the lively tilt in the Senate following the reading of a letter addressed to Senator Dolliver, as chairman of the Senate committee on agriculture, by Gifford Pinchot, in which the chief forester vigorously upheld the subordinates in his office for the aid they gave Louis R. Glavis in the reports he made public attacking Secretary Ballinger, President Taft sent out a hurry call for such members of his cabinet as were within reach.

Secretary Knox, Secretary MacVeagh, Attorney General Wickersham and Secretary Wilson soon put in appearance. It was said that Forester Pinchot's conduct, in sending an official communication to the chairman of a congressional committee was freely discussed, although none of the cabinet officers who participated in the conference would discuss the matter.

President Taft some time ago issued an order that no subordinate in any government department should disclose any information to Congress except through the head of the department.

[illegible] upheld Glavis and described him as "the most vigorous defender of the people's interests," despite the fact that President Taft had declared Glavis unfit to remain in the public service. This direct slap at the President and the further declaration by Mr Pinchot that the Cunningham coal lands really were about to go to fraudulent claimants until Glavis and the forestry bureau officials took a hand in the fight, thus impugning the intentions of high officials of the interior department, are said to have aroused Mr. Taft to keen resentment.

The President is said to have felt for some time that Mr. Pinchot has been "defying the lightning."

Some action as to Mr. Pinchot's course in the letter incident is not unexpected.

NO INK IN LOWER GRADES OF SCHOOLS

Board of Education Decides Pencils Are of More Benefit to Pupils in Primary Classes.

The board of education at a meeting held yesterday afternoon officially approved the recommendation of Superintendent of Schools John Dietrich and some of the teachers, that pencils be used instead of pen and ink by the pupils of the primary grades. The change probably will be made at the beginning of the next semester which opens the latter part of this month. Professor Dietrich declared that it is more advantageous for a child in the primary grade to learn to write by what is known as the suspended arm movement than that the writing be symmetrical. He believes that by the use of the lead pencil the children will acquire a skill that will be of great benefit to them in writing with pen and ink in more advanced grades.

The resignation of Charles Foster as janitor of the Lincoln school was accepted and D. N. Mo[illegible] was appointed to fill the vacancy.

It was decided by the board to [illegible] signed by [illegible] of the [illegible] schools [illegible] presented to the board for payment.

Superintendent Dietrich presented his report for the month of December, 1909. The total number of children who attended school in the district during the month was 4,650 of which 2,30[illegible] were boys and 2,3[illegible] girls. The average daily attendance during the month of December was 4,396.

A communication was received from H. R. Shaw of the Sons of Veterans, requesting that 12 of the guns belts and bayonets loaned to the High School cadets in 1899 be returned to the organization. A search was made of the records but no official acceptance of the arms was found on the minutes of past meetings of the school board and the guns also are said to be missing. No action was taken in the matter yesterday.

The board adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

II. NICARAGUA LAND OF BLASTED HOPES.

By Frederic J. Haskin.

With the greatest canal on the globe almost ready to become a reality Nicaragua thought it was destined to be one of the [illegible] spots of the world. It [illegible] the Western 'Bosporus.' [illegible] considered that it was only a question of time until the commerce of the [illegible] pass through its borders [illegible] Nicaraguan canal. The United States had decided upon an interoceanic [illegible] all parties were pledged [illegible] and indeed both houses of Congress had [illegible] one time or another voted for it. Nicaragua was [illegible] high hopes and [illegible] selling the public places in Rome [illegible] without its walls found a [illegible] spirit of speculation [illegible] Nicaraguans [illegible] changed. Senator Hanna took up the cudgels for Panama the Senate turned to that route, the House followed and Nicaragua became the land of blasted hopes. Down there they still believe that the monumental mistake of history was made when Panama was chosen.

Nominally Nicaragua is a republic where the will of the people should be supreme. Its constitution reads as smooth as our own but only the letter and not the spirit prevails. Every man is supposed to have the right of suffrage and there is another provision which sets forth that no soldier in the army shall vote. And the President has the right to enlist whom he will. Result: when there is a close election thousands of the opposition are temporarily enlisted in the army. It is said that in one election more than seven thousand opponents of Zelaya were enlisted, while all his friends were omitted from the recruits. This is the way the laws and constitutions of Central America are interpreted, and it is such abuses that are largely responsible for the constant turmoil there.

Presidential Lottery.

Nicaragua has a most unique plan of presidential succession in times of peace. The names of five senators are written upon slips of paper, placed in as many envelopes shuffled, and three of the envelopes are drawn out and filed away in the state archives. The other two are destroyed without their contents being known. When there is a vacancy in the presidency the duly

FIND BODY THREE DAYS AFTER DEATH

Neighbors, Alarmed at Absence of W. P. O'Brien, Call Police and Make Grewsome Find.

Dead three days, his body frozen stiff William P. O'Brien, an employe of the Ballou studios, interior decorators, was found in bed in his room in the rear of 117 South Weber street last evening.

O'Brien had not been seen since Monday morning and neighbors, becoming alarmed, asked the police to investigate. The coroner's office was notified and when his room was forcibly entered, he was found dead in bed. According to Coroner D. F. Law he had been dead for three days. The body was removed to the morgue at Fairley's and Law's and a brother Walter O'Brien, 1918 Lincoln street, Denver, will be notified at once by the Denver authorities.

O'Brien had been in poor health for some time and it is believed that he died a natural death. Little is known here concerning him. He had letters from a sister living in Alabama, who signed herself "Clara." Coroner Law will conduct a further investigation today but it is unlikely that an inquest will be held.

Labor Leaders Carry Fight Against U. S. Steel Corporation to the President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The American Federation of Labor, through a committee headed by Samuel Gompers, James O'Connell and other union leaders, today carried its fight against the United States Steel Corporation to President Taft.

The committee presented to the President a formal paper in which the members set forth 14 different charges of illegality against the steel corporation and asked for an immediate investigation of the so-called trust which, they claim, is operating in defiance of the United States statutes.

The President promised to take the matter up with the secretary of commerce and labor and with Labor Commissioner Neill.

LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 6.—Attorney General Thompson today filed in the supreme court application for an injunction to restrain the Burlington and Union Pacific railroads from serving liquor in dining cars on their through trains. The last legislature passed a law prohibiting this practice, but evidence of violation is so hard to secure that the attorney general adopted this means of securing an enforcement of the law.

PARK SYSTEM IS BIG ASSET TO CITY, SAY MERCHANTS

FAVOR A CONSOLIDATION

Speakers Recommend Joining Civic Bodies of City in One Organization.

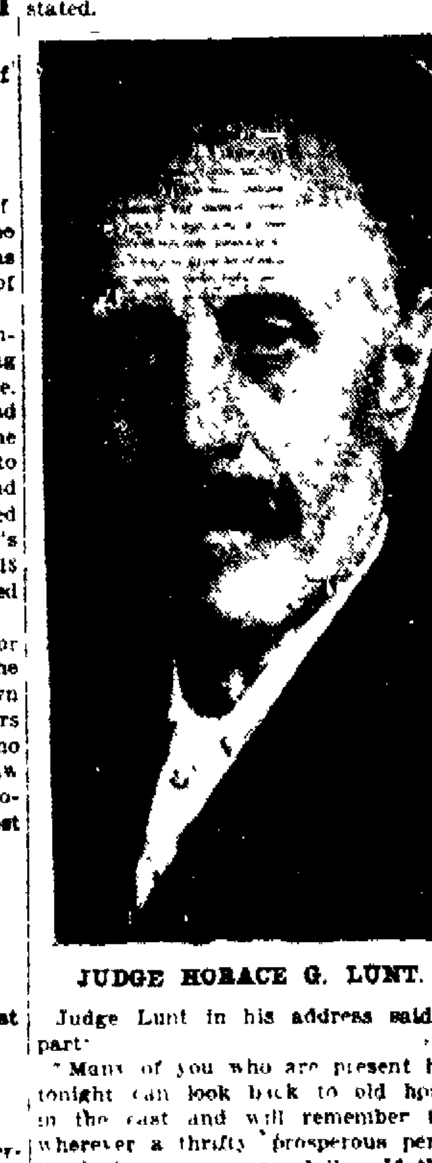

Another milestone was planted on the broad highway along which Colorado Springs is pursuing her journey toward the city ideal last night when the seventh annual banquet of the Merchants association took place at the Antlers hotel. Nearly 300 persons were present among them the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the members. Some sound advice on the shaping of the destiny of the city was one of the features which will long live in the memories of those who attended.

A bigger and better town, as epitomized in a response to one of the toasts was the spirit of the evening. Consolidation of the Merchants association with the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations of city as broached at the recent annual meeting of the latter organization was indorsed by some of the speakers, and while they encouragingly predicted a joint conquest as the result of the movement yet there was a shade of remorse expressed that the knell of what was probably the last annual banquet, as a banquet of the Merchants association, was sounded.

Several Speakers

The speakers were Rush L. Holland whose "Odds and Ends" were both humorous and expressive of many potent truths. Derwood S. Gilmore, who took for his subject "Civic Patriotism" and Judge Horace G. Lunt, who responded to the toast "The Woodpile." President A. B. Meservey presided as toastmaster and opened the program with a few remarks in which he dwelt upon the achievements of the organization during the past year the establishment of a publicity bureau in Denver the proposed paving of the business streets of Colorado Springs and the subject of consolidation.

"A committee to confer with those that have been named by the other organizations will be appointed at the next regular meeting of the association to be held a week from tonight," he stated.

JUDGE HORACE G. LUNT.

Judge Lunt in his address said in part:

"Many of you who are present here tonight can look back to old homes in the east and will remember that wherever a thrifty prosperous person lived there was a woodpile. If there was no woodpile the owner was not prosperous nor thrifty. The woodpile was an asset necessary to the preservation of the family. The woodpile is typical of prosperity. It is necessary. It is necessary to the happiness, the comfort and the prosperity of Colorado Springs. It is necessary that we should get together and have something to get together upon. This city has no woodpile, no asset of any value, unless it is the parks and mountains. Yet the city of Colorado Springs is fortunate in this woodpile. In other words, our park system gives us possibilities unexcelled and will enable us to be prosperous in the future.

Mountains an Asset.

"Colorado Springs never will succeed in manufacture not unless the railroads have an entirely different system than at present. But it has an asset in its mountains. We must, it seems to me, consider that Colorado Springs is as much a pleasure as a health resort. We ought not to lose sight of the fact that if we do not continue to invite tourists and give them their money's worth travel will still start. We are altogether too prone to belittle to our city the value of these mountains

INSURGENTS DECLARE THEY WILL NOT WEAKEN

Will Continue to Fight Against Speaker Cannon and the House Rules.

DO NOT OPPOSE TAFT

Say They Have Done Nothing to Warrant Withholding Patronage From Them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—"The insurgent Republicans of the House are not intimidated by the action of the administration in withholding patronage from them and are not scared into silence by any apparent combination of President Taft and Speaker Cannon."

This was the declaration of Representative Norris of Nebraska, one of the leading insurgents. Mr Norris resented stories appearing in one or two Washington and New York newspapers today to the effect that the insurgents are "lying down" under the edict of the administration. On the contrary, Mr Norris returned to the attack and criticised President Taft for the act of the administration in singling out insurgent Republicans for punishment.

"President Taft is making a grave mistake by aiding Cannon in this way and I want to say so unhesitatingly," continued Mr. Norris.

"I do not object, nor do any of the insurgents object as far as I know, to the withholding of patronage from us. But I denounce this singling out of the men who have opposed Cannon and the House organization for the infliction of punishment. How can the President say we are opposed to his policies and declare we are to be punished for it when we have not opposed his policies in any way? We do not in fact, yet know what President Taft's policies are to be. We have not even received his message on several important subjects. Still we have been punished.

"Postmaster General Hitchcock has admitted that we are being discriminated against right now although we have done absolutely nothing to merit it except to oppose Cannon and the House machine. The President is aiding Cannon, there is no other construction that can be placed on this move of the administration.

"I want to say this effort to defeat us by starting fights against us at home is open to vigorous criticism. I have no objections to Speaker Cannon or any of his supporters coming to Nebraska and making any kind of a fight on me they wish to make but I do deny that the Republican congressional committee has any right to attack me. It is unjust and unfair.

"The fight of the insurgents in the House will continue against Speaker Cannon and the House rules which he personifies. We will not, however, oppose any policy of the President so long it is Republican doctrine."

WOOL GROWERS MEET TO EXCHANGE VIEWS

NATIONAL CONVENTION OPENS AT OGDEN.

Addresses by President Gooding of Idaho and Vice President Knollin of Chicago.

OGDEN, Utah, Jan 6.—The National Wool Growers today cleared away the opening formalities and preliminaries of their forty-sixth annual convention and are now ready to enter upon the work of deliberation and legislation. The committee on resolutions was instructed to have its report ready by tomorrow noon.

The feature of the day was the address by President Fred W. Gooding of Shoshone, Idaho, in which were outlined many of the suggestions which will doubtless be adopted by the convention.

The opening of the session was delayed by the dislocation of railroad schedules until afternoon. The delegates were formally welcomed to Utah by Governor William Spry and to the city of Ogden by Mayor William Glasmann, who presented the convention with a formal surrender of the city engraved on a sheepskin.

A J Knollin of Chicago, eastern vice president, in an address quoted many statistics tending to show that although the possibilities for sheep and wool growing on eastern farms are unlimited, the sheepmen of the west need not feel alarmed about the markets being oversupplied, as farmers prefer to raise cattle and hogs or sell their products direct.

Mr Knollin said.

"The stability of our sheep and wool industry can only be maintained by a permanent protective tariff—a tariff that protects the cross-bred and lower grades of wool and unless sheep are profitable our farmers put them aside for other things not requiring such careful attention."

Mr Knollin further claimed that another reason for the encouragement and protection of the sheep industry was the fact that sheep are not only conservators of natural resources but enrich the soil and increase its productiveness.

Among the topics to be discussed by the convention it is probable there will be some expression against the United States bureau of animal industry's attitude in the so-called "hip and leg disease." Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the bureau, will deliver an address on this subject.

DENVER, Jan. 6.—The Chamber of Commerce and the Convention League have joined in telegrams to the National Wool Growers association in session at Ogden, Utah, asking that Denver be named as the next place of meeting.

'THE TRAVELING SALESMAN'

Forbes' Drummer Delivers a First-Class Line of Laughs Good Production and Company.

It would be difficult to imagine a more pleasing evening's entertainment than "The Traveling Salesman," James Forbes' comedy which had its first local presentation at the Opera House last night before a large and more than satisfied audience "The Traveling Salesman" may not be "The Chorus Lady," Forbes' other play which Rose Stahl plays with such success everywhere, but unlike this latter comedy which would never please without the delightful Miss Stahl, "The Traveling Salesman" can be played by almost any actor of the necessary physical requirements It is a play full of laughs with some pathos mixed in to prevent the monotony of too much fun.

This comedy does not attempt any serious discussion of the drummer's life Neither the ethical nor the social side is touched. It simply presents a big-hearted salesman, likable, square and honest The production last night did not give any great treat of acting; it did not cause any thinking Hence its success. But it was one of the best amusements of the year as far as pure fun and enjoyment are concerned.

Henry B Harris, the manager of "The Traveling Salesman," is one of the few producers of the day who send first-class companies on the road. The organization last night, with three possible exceptions, contains no player of more than ordinary ability, but each member of the cast fits his role so nicely that a smoothly balanced performance is given. Diana Huneker as Mrs. Babbitt does some acting as the village gossip which gives evidence of a sense of character portrayal which goes underneath the skin of the part; James O'Neill, Jr., son of the famous creator of "Monte Cristo," is excellent as one of the drummers His acting is a real characterization in contrast to the merely "type" work of the leading man. Emmett Shackelford, last here with William Faversham in "The Squaw Man," is the third of the trio of exceptions.

Mark Smith in the title role does only what any other man of the necessary physical attributes could do. Smith is a good example of the "type" players who are now flooding the stage. His work is generally acceptable, strained at points, unnatural at others, but pleasing because of his good humor and general appearance. Miriam Nesbitt, rather stiff at times, is the heroine and Guy B. Hoffman as Julius, the colored porter, gets many laughs out of a well-written part for which role Mr. Hoffman can well thank the author.

The staging of the play is excellent It is replete with details which make the entire production admirable as are most of Harris' productions. The railway station and the sample room are noticeably good.

PARK SYSTEM IS A BIG ASSET

tains. It is wonderful the amount of interest taken in them, and the reports that are carried away This is the only way we can increase our business. We have got to furnish these people some amusement You have it, good people, in your power to continue this park system. It is a park system unique. There are not the trees and shrubbery alone, but the mountains You have something of great interest and something that the mayor of Denver has said that that city would give $1,000,000 to have at their door.

RUSH L. HOLLAND.

"The subject of the purchase of Cheyenne canon at practically no cost to the city, it seems to me, is worthy of consideration. We know that seven-tenths, if not nine-tenths, of all those who pay to visit this canon are visitors of the city. If we can purchase; if the people are willing to purchase if they are given a chance to vote on the subject, and I believe they soon will, the charge for entrance in 10 or 12 years would pay for the property. It is a good business proposition.

"Then the concessions that go with these parks are of great value. You would be surprised to know how much they bring. Concessions already sold in South Cheyenne canon would pay for the keeping of the canon and aid in the maintenance of other parks as well.

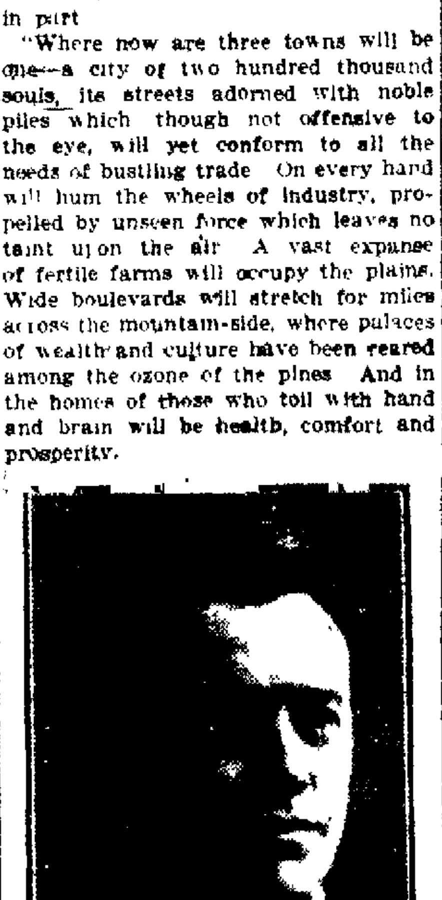

"This is your woodpile. It depends on you whether the wood is to be cut up for use. Information comes from the banks that the sum of $1,300,000 was left in the city by tourists last year."

Mr Holland's remarks consisted mainly of a number of humorous anecdotes and stories with points that were brought home to his listeners.

A Pleasing Forecast.

The address of Mr. Gilmore follows in part

"Where now are three towns will be one—a city of two hundred thousand souls, its streets adorned with noble piles which though not offensive to the eye, will yet conform to all the needs of bustling trade On every hand will hum the wheels of industry, propelled by unseen force which leaves no taint upon the air A vast expanse of fertile farms will occupy the plains. Wide boulevards will stretch for miles across the mountain-side, where palaces of wealth and culture have been reared among the ozone of the pines And in the homes of those who toil with hand and brain will be health, comfort and prosperity.

B. S. GILMORE.

"Having said so much about what can be accomplished through civic patriotism, permit me to express an opinion as to the first step necessary to achievement. I think there should be a reorganization and a federation of our present civic bodies Those two words were chosen with regard to their actual meaning—"reorganization" and "federation."

"The Merchants association should be reorganized so as to provide for restricting its membership to merchants—those who deal in merchandise. Real estate men, professional men, politicians and others not coming within the strict meaning of the term should be excluded. Then this association should confine its activities to matters of detail directly affecting the interests of the merchants. It should not attempt to perform any of the general functions of a Board of Trade or a Chamber of Commerce.

"I understand that the Real Estate Exchange is now working very nearly along those lines.

"These two and other similar associations should hold their dues at a nominal figure, so that there will be no excuse for their members not contributing to the main civic body. If a complete federation can be effected, so that membership in the Chamber of Commerce is made a necessary qualification to membership in these associations, so much the better.

"Then the Chamber of Commerce should be thoroughly reorganized and transformed into a democratic body, holding frequent regular meetings. If this were done, I am sure its membership would be increased many fold. ... of ... may be content to have ... ... exclusively by a board of ... but the wage earner, the ... and the smaller trade ... constituted. They don't ... it and they won't have it and the moral and ... support of additional hundreds of such citizens is more to be desired than any greater efficiency of ... that can possibly be ... in favor of the present plan.

his material for submission to the President."

Defended People's Interest.

After saying that the officials had acted on information had concerning the danger of the loss of the Alaska coal lands, Mr. Pinchot continued

"Action through the usual official channels, and finally even an appeal to the President, had resulted because of what I believe to have been a mistaken impression of the facts in eliminating from the government service in the person of Glavis the most vigorous defender of the people's interest. Furthermore the refusal of the secretary of the interior to assume responsibility in the cases had left their conduct wholly in the hands of subordinates each of whom was apparently committed in favor of patenting the claims."

Price and Shaw, he said, deliberately chose to risk their official positions rather than permit what they believed to be the wrongful loss of public property. Having violated a rule of propriety as between the departments, Mr. Pinchot said, they deserved a reprimand and had received one.

"But I shall recommend," he added, "without hesitation, that no further action in their case is required."

Mr. Pinchot said the action of the subordinates was most unusual, but suggested that the situation that called it forth was quite as unusual.

"Price and Shaw," he said, "successfully directed public attention to a national danger. They increased the people's interest in the people's property and powerfully fostered the desire to conserve it. There is now far less chance that the Alaska coal fields will pass into the hands of fraudulent claimants than there was before they acted.

"They acted on what they believed to be trustworthy information. Many considerations which had not been brought home to the President's mind, as appears from his letter of September 13, had weight with them.

Performed Public Service.

"The rules of official decorum exist in the interest of official administration and of that alone. If they are used to prevent an honest and vigilant official from saving the property of the public their purpose is violated and they become worse than useless. Price and Shaw concede that what they did transgressed propriety. But, measured by the emergency which faced them, by the purity of their motives and the results which they accomplished, their breach of propriety sinks well-nigh into insignificance."

Mr Pinchot said he disclaimed any intention, or desire to shirk any part of his own legitimate responsibility for what was done by the two subordinates. What they did, he added, raised a question of principle that should not be obscured either by personal consideration or by possible mistakes on their part. They had, he said, done for the people of the country what the people would have done for themselves had they been in a situation to do it.

Upon the conclusion of the discussion of the Pinchot letter the President's message transmitting Attorney General Wickersham's report on the Ballinger case was laid before the Senate but Mr Wickersham's long report was not read It was referred to the committee on public lands.

Senator Nelson chairman of the committee on public lands, has called a meeting for Saturday morning to consider the several resolutions relating to the investigation of the Ballinger-Pinchot controversy.

"LET PEOPLE DECIDE WHO IS RIGHT"—GLAVIS

PORTLAND Jan. 6.—"Let the people decide who is right, I think they are better qualified to act as a jury in my case than any one else." This was the statement made today by L. R. Glavis, former chief of the field division of the general land office, to the Associated Press after the report of Attorney General Wickersham and the letter of Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot to Senator Dolliver had been read to him. The former field chief was equally reticent regarding the letter from Chief Forester Pinchot to Senator Dolliver. He declared, however, that "Mr. Pinchot is a man of scrupulous honesty and would have no hesitation in pronouncing as true whatever he actually said on this or any other subject."

POLITICAL MEETINGS TURNED INTO RIOTS

BRITISH LORDS HOOTED DOWN BY CONSTITUENTS.

One Speaker Enters Ring With a Rowdy and They Fight Until Police Interfere.

LONDON, Jan. 6. Serious disturbances marked many of the political meetings tonight. The Earl of Donoughmore and Lord Cheylesmore, in attempting to address a conservative meeting at Coventry, found the hall had been captured by the radicals, who hooted all the speakers down. The meeting broke up in disorder.

A similar fate overtook Lord Rothschild at Wolverton, where a crowd of radical hooligans rushed the doors. Lord Rothschild stood for a long time facing the deafening cheering but was obliged to content himself by addressing the reporters.

Sir William Bull, member of the house of commons for Hammersmith, while speaking before the electors of that constituency, was rudely heckled by a man in the crowd. He threatened to punch the man's head.

"Come on," shouted the man.

Sir William forthwith descended and the crowd formed a ring A standup fight ensued until the police separted the combatants.

Sir William speaking of the affair said he was none the worse for the encounter.

"There has been a deal of unfair radical rowdyism of late," he said. "This affair may clear the air as Englishmen like a fair fight and no fouling."

Premier Asquith, David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, John Burns, president of the local government board, and other members of the government tonight denounced A. J. Balfour's alarmist references to Germany and replied to his accusations of the unpreparedness of the navy.

Lloyd-George said that in the last decade Great Britain had built nearly double the number of battleships constructed by Germany, but if the ratio were reversed, he would not be afraid because Great Britain had the men behind the guns. "But," he added "we will continue to build warships faster than Germany."

ANOTHER COLD WAVE ON WAY FROM WEST

WARMER WEATHER PROMISED FOR ONE DAY.

Temperatures Far Below Zero Throughout Colorado Yesterday. Suffering in the East.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A special forecast issued tonight by the weather bureau says.

The next important disturbance will reach the Pacific coast Friday, cross the Rocky mountains and plains states Saturday and Sunday, the central valleys and lake region Sunday and Monday and reach the Atlantic coast about Tuesday.

This disturbance will be preceded by temperatures above the average at this season today

The next well-marked cold wave will appear over the extreme northwest about the beginning of the next week and will advance thence eastward and southeastward to the Atlantic coast by about Thursday.

DENVER, Colo., Jan 6.—Colorado was again today the coldest state in the Union. This morning Durango registered 24 below zero. Leadville, 22 below, and Corona 26 below. The western slope is also in the throes of a cold wave. Ten below zero was reported at Grand Junction and Montrose. At Pueblo the mercury fell to 10 below zero.

BUENA VISTA, Jan. 6.—The blizzard which has been raging since Monday continues unabated. A strong wind has been drifting the snow badly for four days Last night thermometers in the valley registered from 15 to 30 degrees below zero, while in the mountain section the temperature is reported to have dropped to 40 below. All telephone and telegraph communication with the mountain mining camps is cut off and no news from them has reached the valley since Monday.

The snow on the mountains is driving badly. Cattle and horses are suffering and many of them are dying.

FUEL AND FOOD FAMILIES

CHICAGO Jan 6.—With the street thermometers registering four degrees below zero and a probability of the mercury dropping still lower, Chicago today was the scene of extreme winter suffering. To add to the misery the city faces a fuel famine as a result of the storm.

DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 6.—Governor Carroll today received telegrams from officials of the Chicago and Northwestern, the Rock Island and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railways saying that they would give coal shipments the right of way on their lines in order to relieve the coal famine. Coal trains began moving late today.

DAMAGE AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The north, east and south are in the grasp of a sleet, rain and snow storm that threatens to outdo in havoc the great Christmas blizzard The property damage runs into the millions, railroad schedules have been upset and telegraph and telephone wires prostrated.

Greater New York from the outskirts of Brooklyn to upper Harlem and the outskirts of the Bronx is a vast skating rink today

With the streets for miles upon miles covered with a thin blanket of glassy ice, hundreds of persons were injured, traffic was seriously crippled and the town did its work under the greatest difficulty. Every hospital in the city was kept busy.

PLOT TO ROB BANK FOILED IN NEW YORK

TUNNEL DUG UNDER STREET TO REACH VAULTS.

Discovery Made by Police When Searching for Man Who Was Reported Missing.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—In seeking a man reported by his relatives as missing the police this evening discovered a tunnel that led from the cellar in a tenement in which he lived in Ludlow street—the center of the lower east side across the street and in the direction of a jewelry store and the east side branch of the Fourteenth street bank, where millions of dollars were stored in vaults.

Isadore Garbus, reported that his brother-in-law, Isaac Finkelstein was missing, that the last he saw of him was yesterday when they went into the cellar together to get wood. On questioning Finkelstein's wife, the police learned that she believed he had been crushed by a cave-in of the cellar This led to the clearing away of a pile of boxes that revealed the tunnel opening.

With a lantern a detective followed the tunnel under the building walls and past the center of the street but returned, fearing a cave-in. Work was then started from the street surface down to the tunnel. Garbus was arrested.

The vaults of the east side branch of the Fourteenth Street bank contain deposits of $10,000,000 and the safe of a jewelry shop next door contained $60,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry.

Digging continued all afternoon and all night but the work went slowly because of the depth of the excavation and the necessity for caution. At a point beyond the first obstruction a fork in the tunnel was found, one branch heading to the bank vaults and the other to the jewelry shop. Late tonight the diggers had uncovered about fifty feet of burrowing with no trace of the body of Finkelstein.

There is some doubt whether he is in the tunnel for it is pointed out that the home entrance to it was barricaded from the outside. On the other hand the police contend, a confederate could have made the barricade.

Garbus, the brother-in-law of the missing man, is being held by the police as a witness.

MANY BALLOTS EXCLUDED

Judge's Incorrect Watch Causes Much Excitement at Close of Voting for Apple Queen.

DENVER, Jan. 6.—Uneasy lie the heads of those anxious to wear the crown which will be placed upon the brow of the queen of the Colorado apple exposition by Governor Shafroth tomorrow. Three minutes difference in watches of the officials may have change the result of the contest which closed tonight and wild protests from the candidates and their adherents. The decision of the judges, not yet announced, may be protested.

The ballot boxes were to have closed at 10 o'clock. One of the officials, with an incorrect watch, announced the contest closed at 9:57. Many of the ballot boxes were reopened for three minutes when the mistake was discovered but several remained closed and hundreds of votes, being held until the last minute, could not be deposited.

The Delta delegation registered a protest this afternoon claiming that fraudulent ballots were being deposited and objected to a secret count by officials. Many of the candidates will have watchers at the final count.

CALIENTE DESTROYED

No Habitable Houses Left in Nevada Town—Flood Drives People to Hills.

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 6.—The little town of Caliente, Nev. flood swept by torrents issuing from melting snow in the canons, is today a scene of indescribable desolation Rising above all marks previously touched in flood stages the muddy current leveled whole hillsides, where the railroad ran, and swept over the town like an avalanche. The wrecks of dwellings floated off with the tide like so many houseboats.

At the worst stage of the disaster people deserted their homes and fled panic-stricken to the hills. Here they pass the days and nights unsheltered and exposed to temperatures many degrees below zero That many did not perish is a matter almost beyond belief So far as known, however, but one person, a section hand, met death in the floods.

It is feared many days will elapse before relief parties can communicate with the stricken people and in the meantime much suffering is anticipated There is sure to be a scarcity of food and clothing.

Every house in the town that remains standing has been rendered unfit for occupancy. Outside of town the highways, originally cut in slate or mineral formations, have been converted into quagmires, while scores of bridges were borne away.

No secret is made of the fact that through traffic over the Salt Lake route is a prospect altogether too remote for speculation.

C. C. Moore, train agent, and N. Anderson of Grand Forks, N. D., were the first to reach Salt Lake from San Pedro train No 4, stranded near Caliente. The men left the train Wednesday and walked to Barclay where they caught the train for Salt Lake City.

"Our passengers camped in one coach and the dining car in order to economize heat," said Moore "Food was plentiful at first but was cut to two meals a day just before we left. The only real suffering was for tobacco which was used up early in the game."

WILL TRANSFER PATIENTS

County Commissioners to Change Insane to State Institution When Cottages Are Completed.

The county commissioners who returned Wednesday night from a trip to Pueblo, where they conferred with the commissioners of Pueblo county, discussed improvement of the roads on the line between the two counties and decided that a bridge is needed at Wigwam. No immediate action will be taken, but when conditions permit the bridge will be constructed, the expense to be shared by both counties.

The asylums where the insane of the state are cared for were also inspected by the commissioners. They report that conditions at all of the institutions are satisfactory, although all are crowded. The state asylum accommodates 900 patients at present, and three new buildings, each to accommodate 300 more, will soon be completed. These new buildings will be used to house the patients, who are now being cared for in private sanitariums at the expense of the state. These patients number more than 300 at the present time, so that the new buildings will be filled as soon as they are ready for occupancy.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED BY HUMANE SOCIETY

Last Year One of Most Successful in History of Organization. 747 Cases Investigated

Mrs. Francis W. Goddard, 808 North Cascade avenue, was re-elected president of the El Paso County Humane society yesterday afternoon at the annual meeting in the court house. J. Floyd Neff was again chosen humane officer and the other officers were reelected as follows: E. W. Giddings, vice president; W. F. Richards, secretary; J. Floyd Neff, assistant secretary and George Rex Buckman, treasurer.

Reports of the president and humane officer show that the society investigated the largest number of cases in its history here and lost the smallest number in the courts. Of the 76 cases investigated in court, the society lost only three. During the year 1909 the society investigated 747 cases.

Officer Neff's work has been very efficient and the society has received many compliments on his untiring activity to enforce the humane and juvenile laws. This is the fifth time he has been elected humane officer.

Following are the reports of the president and the human officer:

President's Report.

The year of 1909 was the most successful in the history of the El Paso County Humane society. More work has been accomplished and a more generous response to the appeal for financial asistance has been given. The society seems to have made for itself a larger place in the community, and its various activities are better understood and apreciated. Much of this is stood and appreciated. Much of this is of the humane officer, who has carried a heavy burden of responsibility, but has never been too busy to respond to any demand that has been made upon his strength or time. He has shown a rare skill in dealing with cases where children are involved. His report shows that the work among children and young people has steadily increased, and yet with this he has found opportunity to look after the dumb animals who have needed help.

It seems sometimes a pity that the two branches of work cannot be divided, but with the present financial condition of the society this is out of the question, and the humane officer will still be obliged to do double duty.

The society is grateful for all the assistance received from the city and county and from its loyal members, and looks forward to this year with the wish that it may merit the confidence reposed in it by those who have supported it.

Report of Humane Officer.

Officer Neff's report for the year ending December 31, 1909, follows:

Health Cranks and Food Faddists

Have Evolved Some Strange and Wonderful Theories Concerning Stomach Treatment.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Sent Free.

Within the last 20 years there has sprung into existence theories by the score relative to the kinds of food that human beings should eat, and should avoid. With the tremendous increase in nervous and stomach diseases which are caused by the strenuous life of this neurotic, neurasthenic age in which we live, we are constantly having our attention called to some food faddist's "new idea" on the subject of alimentation.

Most prominent among these theorists is the vegetarian who insists that meat was never intended for the human stomach, despite the fact that his ancestors for 6,000 years or more, used it as their principal article of diet; and the old partriarchs of Biblical History who lived to prodigious old ages, were meat eaters. All of the great nations of history have been users of meat, and all of the most powerful and advanced countries of today employ it extensively in their dietaries, and their superior development and high degree of civilization are in strong and striking contrast to the decadent and degenerate nations of Asia and the tropics, whose inhabitants are vegetarians.

Another fallacy which has lately become a fad, is the so-called "low-proteid" diet. Now, the foods which are rich in proteids are the ones which build up nerve, brain, muscle and blood, so that any great reduction in the amount of proteid used simply means semi-starvation for the most important centers of the system—the ones on which we depend the most to enable us to successfully fight the battles of life. Those nations whose people use foods containing but little proteid are never of large frame or well-built. The Japanese, who have always been small of stature, have, since adopting a more liberal proteid diet, shown a remarkable development; and it is only since Japan became a meat-eating nation that it has developed into a world-power.

Still another theory lately advanced is that sugar, pepper and salt are gastric irritants and irritate the mucous membrane of the stomach, although it is known that sugar possesses a high caloric value, while pepper and salt assist digestion rather than interfere with it, as is claimed.

The no-breakfast plan, the two-meal per day, and even the one meal daily has been advocated, while some advise a two or three weeks' fast, during which all food is withheld from the stomach "to give it a rest," completely ignoring the fact that the system's tissues are being constantly torn down and cast off, and new material to rebuild them must be supplied from the food.

It is utter nonsense to concern one's self about all these absurd and illogical theories, as life is entirely too short, and there are other things requiring our attention. Eat what you want when you want it, and as much as the system needs to replenish its waste, and then take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and forget all about food fads and stomach troubles. They digest all kinds of food so thoroughly you won't know you have a stomach. They are powerful digestors of every kind of food though harmless to the stomach, and may be taken at any time and in any quantity.

TO GET OPINIONS

Paving Committee Decides to Ask Property Owners in Proposed District for Advice.

To ascertain the wishes of the individual taxpayers who must meet the greater part of the expense of paving, the committee of 11, at a meeting in the city hall yesterday afternoon voted to send out circular letters to every property owner in the proposed paving district, giving the paving estimates of City Engineer T. L. Waggener and asking that the committee be notified at once of the property owner's choice of paving.

These circular letters will be sent out in a few days. In a short time after the letters are mailed, the committee expects to secure replies. In this way it can learn the wishes of every property owner who is directly affected by the paving movement.

The proposed paving district consists of Tejon street from Platte avenue south to Vermijo street, Pikes Peak avenue from the Antlers to Nevada, and Huerfano street from Cascade to Nevada avenue.

Chairman J. A. Hayes was unable to attend the meeting of the committee yesterday afternoon. P. L. B[illegible], vice chairman, presided. Seven members were present. The committee will meet on call of the chairman.

The new officers, whose elections have been announced previously, were installed by Grand Master Lyman I. Henry of Pueblo, assisted by Grand Warden J. E. Snook of Greeley; Grand Secretary O. E. Jackson of Denver, and Grand Conductor Thomas E. Ward of Montrose.

WILL INVESTIGATE

Attorney General Will Send Some One to Look Over Title to Armory Site.

Col. W. A. Davis of the Second regiment, N. G. C., yesterday received word that a representative of the state attorney general's office in Denver will visit Colorado Springs next Monday and investigate the title to the proposed armory site on Platte avenue, between Wahsatch avenue and Weber street. The liquor clause in the deed proved to be a stumbling block when the deal was turned over to the attorney general to be closed, although Colonel Davis hopes that approval will result from the coming investigation.

CENTRAL AMERICA IMITATES FRANCE

constituted authorities open the first envelope and the senator whose name is written thereon becomes president. Here we see how the people distrust their own associates. The name of the heir apparent must be kept a profound secret lest he or his friends seek to hasten the succession.

Nicaragua is not noted for a high average of intelligence among its people. Those at the head of affairs are usually well educated, and there is also culture among the well-to-do classes of the country, but the rank and file are merely ignorant, unlettered tropical people. They are "dumb driven cattle" who lend themselves readily to the purposes of the demagogue. They are nearly always against the government because they so often feel the law's restraining hand. Some idea of the prevalence of ignorance may be had from a report made by the head of the department of education who states that in Granada and Leon, the most highly civilized cities of the country, only 30 per cent of the children are enrolled in the schools. He concludes that only one-seventh of the children of Nicaragua learn to read and write.

Humble Homes and Simple Garb.

The majority of the people live in adobe houses covered with tiles or with thatched roofs. Usually there is no floor in the rural house, and if there is a ceiling it is only a sheet of white cloth tacked up to hide the ugliness of the under-roof. Beds without mattresses, rooms without windows, cooking without stoves and grinding with old fashioned Indian millstones are still the rule rather than the exception.

The clothing of the average Nicaraguan is extremely simple. Among the poorer classes the boys run in the Adamic garb worn before Eve invented her palm-leaf apron. The girls wear little slips made from a single piece of muslin. The ordinary clothing of the men consists of a palm-leaf hat, a shirt and a pair of trousers. All go barefooted except the Indians, who wear sandals. The women wear a chemise, a cotton shirt and a kind of light shawl. Those of high caste imitate European ways. Labor is plentiful in numbers but short in quality. It is said that the average laborer wants to be treated as a nabob or hidalgo. Among the poorer classes baptism is considered a more sacred rite than marriage.

People Hospitable and Honest.

As a rule the Nicaraguans are polite, honest, and fun-loving. Their speech abounds in compliments, and their hospitality is such that the stranger is always received with courtesy. The best the house affords, though it may be nothing more than a cup of coffee and a small cake, is placed at his disposal. The Indians, though for centuries treated with cruelty by the Spaniards, have not been soured by misuse and still go their way with much song and laughter. They are quick to coin words and characterize people according to their occupation. When the first American engineering party on the Nicaragua canal established itself at Rivas, the wife of the engineer in charge accompanied it. Later she received a letter which had no address other than "La Canalera," literally the woman of the canal.

Honesty is a marked characteristic of the average low caste Nicaraguan. In the little stores the custom is often [illegible] Sometimes the storekeepers have their cigars and cigarettes where the passerby may get them and drop the price in a cup by the side of the box. Even the beggar will not touch [illegible] cup. Cock-fighting is the principal pastime of the people. [illegible] their hair [illegible] except for a little circle on top of the head. [illegible] cut a [illegible] in half, fits it on the head [illegible] away all the hair not covered by the shell.

Interesting Ant Life.

The ant life of Nicaragua is very interesting. There is the species that are agriculturalists of a high order. One will them carrying little green leaves [illegible] [illegible] ants used these leaves for food, but investigation showed that the young ones chew them up finely and then, in combination with another substance, use them as a compost in which to grow a kind of tiny mushroom which constitutes food for the ants when they are shut indoors by the rain. The evidence of this is so positive as to admit of no charge of nature faking.

Ants of another species are great foragers, and travel in hordes on their expeditions. When they come to a brook that is spanned by a single twig they are not willing to wait until they can pass over single file. Some of their number crawl out on the twig and by clinging to its sides widen the natural causeway with their bodies. Then the road is made wide enough for columns of fours and eights, and the delay of single filing a vast army across is obviated. Perhaps it does not take reasoning to arrive at the conclusion that columns of fours can cross a place more quickly than a single file, but it is so close to reasoning that it is hard to differentiate it from that mental operation.

Mixture of Races.

Nicaragua has practically the same area as the state of New York, and its population is about equal to that of the city of Baltimore. Five-sixths of the inhabitants live on the western or Pacific coast. The principal port on the Pacific side is Corinto, which has about 2,000 inhabitants. The principal town on the east side is Bluefields which is 1,186 miles from New Orleans. Nicaragua has one railroad which runs from Corinto to Managua, and from there to Granada on Lake Nicaragua, the largest inland body of water in that part of the world. Last year Nicaragua bought from the United States textiles, clothing, machinery, etc. to the amount of $1,380,000, and sold to this country bananas, coffee, rubber, mahogany, cattle, hides, etc. to the amount of $1,500,000.

On the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua there are seventeen recognized race-types, the product of the mixture of Chinese, Negroes, Indians and whites. In the interior there are almost as many varieties of political parties, divided by distinctions hardly less exquisite than those which separate the various races on the coast. The issue on which these parties differ is, at bottom, the matter of the church. In Nicaragua there exists a religious question almost exactly parallel to that which still troubles the people of France. This situation is probably due to a considerable extent to that close sympathy and quick response which Central America manifests toward all things French. In spite of the geographical proximity of the United States, the influence in Latin America is far less definite than that of France. It is to Paris that Central America looks for new ideas. It is French policies that Central American statesmen study and imitate. Much that the American publicist finds difficult to understand in Central American affairs may be explained by referring to contemporary movements in France.

NEW $20,000 LAUNDRY FOR COLORADO SPRINGS

Local Men Prepare to Have Model Plant in Working Order by January 17.

The Pearl Laundry company has been organized by J. W. Gilles, O. E. Buckman, L. E. Evanston and F. V. Scoby, all of this city, and the building at 15 North Tejon street is being fitted up with the latest improved machinery for the laundry. The plant, when complete, will represent an expenditure of $20,000. A lease has been secured on the building for 10 years.

The new laundry plant will be one of the finest in the west. The proprietors are making everything conform to the idea of perfect sanitation. There will be individual drinking cups for employes. The Pearl company is the first laundry in the United States to adopt this plan. Modern machinery of the type that makes for the comfort and convenience of the employes has been purchased. There will be none of the old-style machinery that tires its workers and hampers the work of the plant. An innovation will be a tumbler dryer in which clothes are placed and dried by a system of fans.

Mr. Buckman is president and general manager. Mr. Evanston is vice president, Mr. Gilles secretary and Mr. Scoby director. Each member of the Pearl company has had experience with local laundries and is familiar with the work. The laundry will be in running order by January 17.

Virgil L. Snyder, 219 North Nevada avenue, formerly employed by the local branch of the Antisaloon league to secure evidence against druggists who were violating the liquor laws, was arrested yesterday by the sheriff's office on a charge of contempt of court, at the request of the La Junta authorities. Snyder failed to comply with a court order that he must pay his wife, who was recently granted a decree of separate maintenance in La Junta, the sum of $25 a month. Advices from La Junta are to the effect that Snyder deserted his wife, leaving her and their four small children practically penniless and came to this city. The Snyders have been married 10 years. Mrs. Snyder's father is D. R. Batty, a well-to-do farmer living near La Junta. Snyder will be taken back to that city.

A. W. L. MAY ERECT $10,000 CLUB HOUSE

Plans for an elaborate chapter house, which will cost $10,000 and will probably be erected in the spring, have been drawn up and are now in the hands of Pikes Peak chapter of the American Woman's league which was recently organized in the city. As soon as the membership reaches 200, the work will be commenced, and the clubhouse will be erected through the ...ration of the national organization.

The American Women's league, although but recently organized, has over 10,000 members in the country and is rapidly increasing. It was first organized in 1908 by the Lewis Publishing company of St. Louis, is now in full control of the plan, and will be until the league is firmly established. Then it will be put under a trust company. Six other publishing houses joined in the plan last year, the scheme being to establish a permanent national subscription for reputable publishers. Membership in the league is gained by collecting subscriptions in the sum of $52 to the co-operating publications. The local chapter will receive 25 per cent of the renewal income of the subscription to publications coming from its territory. Seven hundred chapters of the organizations are now in existence, many of which own their own club houses.

FROZEN AS HE GOES OUT TO REPAIR LINE

N. Muttall, Caretaker for C. S. and C. C. D. Ry. Near Lake Moraine, Will Lose Several Toes.

Leaving his cabin to repair a break in one of the power wires of the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District Railway company, N. Muttall, caretaker at the power plant near Lake Moraine, was badly frozen about the hands, feet, ears and nose. Muttall, with his wife and 17-year-old son, lives at the power house, which supplies the electric current for the trolley lines operated by the Short Line in the Cripple Creek district.

Last night, shortly after dark, trouble developed on one of the lines, and Muttall went out to locate the source. He was absent nearly all night and when he returned his condition was so serious that a physician was summoned. Last night it was learned that he will recover, but the toes of both feet were so badly frozen that one or more of his toes may require amputation.

WAS QUITE CHILLY

Ten Below Zero at 4 a. m. Yesterday—14 Below in Cripple Creek Last Night.

The lowest temperature registered yesterday at the Colorado College weather observatory was 10 degrees below zero. This was about 4 o'clock yesterday morning. Yesterday's mean temperature was zero.

Last night at 9 o'clock the thermometer was reported at 14 degrees below zero in Cripple Creek

Breaking all records in the state for cold weather, the mercury at Lake Moraine, one of the large supply reservoirs of the city's system, took a decided drop to 34 below zero Wednesday night. This is the coldest weather ever recorded in the state, according to several old timers of this region. The water in the lake has been frozen several feet thick and the mains leading to this city had to be thawed out.

To call a special election, the signatures of 10 per cent of the voters of the city is necessary. English Money Discovered by Thomas Lockhart Near Manitou Said to Be of Great Value.

SPORTS | WINTER FODDER FOR FANS | SPORTS

IF IT'S NEW IT'S HERE GATHERED BY RECOGNIZED EXPERTS EDITED BY BRUCE A. GUSTIN

TWO FIGHTING BROTHERS

Two pugilistic champions in one family is a combination that is not often to be found in the pugilistic world. Great ball players go by families at times, but not with the fighters. There is a difference, however, in the Attells, for there are two title holders in Monte and Abe. The latter is the featherweight leader, while Monte lays claim to the bantam-weight honors, although he will not fight at less than 115 pounds.

Abe has long been in the ring, but Monte is a later edition. Both are crafty, Abe having taken the honors of being the shrewdest worker in the squared circle today. Monte bids fair to follow in his footsteps. There is another Attell who would be a shining light in the pugilistic world had he cared to continue. That is Caesar. However, the ring didn't appeal to this oldest of the brothers, and he soon deserted it to conduct a loan-office in New York, started out of his ring earnings.

CARDINALS AND CUBS LAY PLANS FOR SPRING—WILL CONDITION IN SOUTH

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—For exactly 10 seconds yesterday it looked as if another "Mysterious Stranger" had appeared in baseball with the discovery of President M. Stanley Robison of the St. Louis Cardinals, heavily disguised in a full beard of deep brown, in the offices of President Murphy of the Cubs. At the expiration of 10 seconds, however, the Mound City magnate frankly admitted his identity, and the mystery was off. Mr. Robison came to Chicago from his home town, Cleveland, on business for a few days, and simply made a belated New Year call on the Cub owner.

Mr. Robison excused his hirsute disguise by the fact that he had been unable to shave since the Friday in December on which the National league was deadlocked over the election of president. It is not a bet, either, but a swollen gland in his neck had given him a lot of trouble and worry. He expected to be able to lose the fliers, which are not at all undignified, within a few days.

The Cardinals will make a short and sane training trip, as Mr. Robison is a strong advocate of that method of conditioning players. The team will not go into camp at Little Rock until March 7, and will remain there for nearly a month, returning to their own Mound City to put on the finishing touches in April. No spring series will be played with the Browns this year, but instead exhibition games have been booked at the Cardinals' grounds with Milwaukee, April 2 and 3, with St. Paul for April 8, 9 and 10, and with Louisville for April 11 and 12.

Owner Charles of the New Orleans club spent the greater part of the day in conference with Mr. Murphy, closing up arrangements for the spring training of the Cubs in Pelicantown, and endeavoring to separate the Chicago magnate from some of his surplus players. He had better success as an arranger than as a separator. Accommodations will be secured for 50 Cubs and Cublets in the south, though at present Mr. Murphy has mislaid the names of four of them, and thinks they may be lost. There were 50 of them before the political campaign opened last fall, but when the list was checked up yesterday four were missing from the strong box. Another search of the offices will be made before the matter is reported to the police.

The Cubs are booked to begin their exhibition games with the Pelicans on March 6, and to remain there until March 19, when their series with the Cleveland American league team will end.

ILLINI AND GOPHERS CAN'T GET TOGETHER

Hopes of Matching Old Rivals on Gridiron Have Gone Glimmering.

URBANA, Ill., Jan. 6.—Illinois' hopes of a football game with Minnesota after a lapse of gridiron relations for many years, seem to have gone glimmering since the Gophers offered such an early date to Director Huff. The northerners, after some negotiations, assented to the local demand for an alternate battle on Illinois field. Then they presented the second game of the season as the one open for the orange and blue eleven. This was manifestly impossible on account of the proximity of the Chicago-Illinois game, even were it not for the fact that the Gophers would have such a striking advantage in climatic conditions that early in the season.

Since the refusal of Huff to consider the date there has been nothing doing, and it is improbable that the old time adversaries will renew their rivalry. Wisconsin seems the [illegible] opponent in addition to [illegible] if the Badgers succeed in [illegible] to convince the faculty [illegible] are insufficient.

Mild Interest in Soccer.

Only a mild interest is taken in the effort to boost soccer football, which so far has mainly attracted the foreign students at the university, such as the Filipinos. The swarthy islanders strive to like the sport, but since it has been made an intercollegiate affair by Chicago and Illinois more material will be available for [illegible]

BATTLING NELSON AND WOLGAST ARE MATCHED

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6.—Battling Nelson, lightweight champion, and Ad. Wolgast were matched today by Sid Hester of the Mission Athletic club of this city to fight 45 rounds on February 22 at a new arena to be built in San Mateo county.

Wolgast accepted by telegraph Hester's offer of $3,750 and the articles were mailed to him in Los Angeles today. Nelson's share will be $12,000 according to the articles. The referee will be named 15 days before the fight.

JOHNSON WILL FINISH TRIP IN 11 WEEKS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 6.—George W. Little, Chicago, manager and backer of Jack Johnson, arrived here today from Cleveland to join the Johnson theatrical troupe, and made the announcement that Johnson would finish his tour in 11 weeks at Kansas City. Thence he will go to Chicago and start light training in the gym being built in the rear of his new home there. He will do his final training at Seal Rock pavilion, in San Francisco, where he prepared for the Ketchel fight. Manager Little said that the Johnson-Jeffries fight in all probability would be pulled off at Ocean View, on the other side of the bay from San Francisco, where promoters Rickard and Gleason are preparing to erect a pavilion to accommodate 25,000.

Manila's city budget for 1909-10 fiscal year amounts to $2,860,476. Of this $141,025 is for public schools and $225,000 for public works and improvements.

FIGHTERS CONQUERED BY JOHNSON ON WAY TO CHAMPIONSHIP

AMERICAN LEAGUE CLUBS TO SPEND FABULOUS SUM ON SPRING TRAINING IN THE LAND OF COTTON

Sticking to his time-honored custom, President Comiskey of the White Sox is to lead all the other clubs of the two major leagues in the spring training work. The South Siders will cover more territory during February, March and April than any other club of the two circuits by invading the golden west, a section that seldom sees the headliners of the baseball firmament.

While the white shins are shuttling around the coast, the 15 other majors will be rounding to in Dixie land. Something like $150,000 will be expended to condition the army of athletes of the various clubs.

Hot Springs will be the Mecca for four clubs—Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Brooklyn of the National and Boston of the American circuit. Marlin Springs, Tex., the old stamping grounds of the New York Giants, will again house the Broadway beauties. Roger Bresnahan is going back to Little Rock with his band of Cardinals, the Cubs have arranged to tarry around New Orleans, and Fred Lake's Boston Nationals will march on Augusta, Ga.

Browns Go to Houston.

Jack O'Connor, new boss of the St. Louis Browns, is going to lead his hopefuls down to Houston, Tex., where the team will be drilled prior to the start of the 1910 flag race. The champion Detroit club will prepare at San Antonio. Atlanta, Ga., will serve as the hangout for McGillicuddy's Philadelphia Athletics, and Cleveland has hit upon Alexandria, La., as the right and proper spot for the early endeavor.

In selecting quarters at Norfolk, Va., Jimmy McAleer, new chief of the lowly Washington squad, has sprung an innovation in the training stunt. According to McAleer, the season of the extended southern junket is on the wane. Hence Jimmy has advised the management of the senatorial host to arrange for a short stand 45 minutes from Pennsylvania avenue, the main thoroughfare of the nation's capital.

Players who are now enjoying the easy side of life have started preliminary training, although in the main the boys will continue to rest up until served with the big summons to appear on deck eight weeks hence. The closing days of next month will see the grand getaway for most of the teams.

HATCH IS OUT WITH CHALLENGE TO JENSEN

It's up to Peter Jensen, the Denver lightweight, to sign up for a scrap with George W. Hatch, a colored featherweight of this city, or show the white feather. Hatch, who is connected with the Little London Athletic club of this city, is sore because some of Colorado's prize fighters have refused to meet him on the grounds that he is black and they are white.

Hatch is so anxious for a scrap that he is willing to give Jensen the advantage of the weight proposition, and also put his featherweight championship title of the state in the pot. "I'll fight Jensen for a percentage of the receipts, to be agreed upon later, provided he will post $25 to make 133 pounds the afternoon of the bout," said Hatch yesterday. "If he fails to make the weight he forfeits the money to me, and I will fight him anyhow. The best weight I can make is 125 pounds."

Hatch is in good condition, and is ready and anxious to put up a forfeit if Jensen will accept his terms.

AERO CONVENTION

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The first national convention of the Aero club is to be held in St. Louis in June, according to an announcement here today. The meeting will be in charge of Cortlandt Field Bishop, who will present to the delegates a new constitution and by-laws and will outline the general plan for a new federation. The Aero Club of America will remain the head of the American clubs, and the proposed federation will be similar to the national groups of Aero clubs now existing in European countries.

TERRORS GET SWEATERS

Monogrammed white sweater coats have been presented to the members of the High School Terrors football eleven of 1909, in recognition of their excellent work last season. The presentation was made by Coach Richards, who is principal of the High School. A meeting of the team will be held in a few days to elect a manager for next year.

JOCKEY OBERT STARS; RIDES FOUR WINNERS

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 6.—Obert was the star jockey at Moncrief today riding no less than four winners. His victory on Robin Grey, however, was the surprise of the day, as this horse won at 11 to 1.

At Oakland.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 6.—Prejuicio, after receding from 7 to 5 to ½ to 5 today, scored an easy victory over some clever sprinters in the Menlo park handicap at Emeryville. It was reported that the horse was lame, and there was a plunge on Binocular, he having the call at post time. Madman led most of the way, but Prejuicio had no trouble passing him. Binocular was third. Jim Gaffney won the third easily from Bishop W. Elodia B. got off badly, and was beaten by Calopus in the first. Kerry, the favorite, led the field home in the second.

At Tampa.

TAMPA, Jan. 6.—Three favorites and two heavily-played second choices rewarded the talent today. The upset of the day was in the 2-year-old race, when Barney Schreiber's Louise B., installed favorite at odds on, was beaten by Nichols' Lady Lewis.

At Juarez.

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 6.—The extreme cold weather kept the attendance down to less than 1,000 persons today. The card was very ordinary, but the talent broke even, as three favorites won. Charlie Hargrave, running to his best form, equaled the track record for six furlongs when he won the fourth race in 1:12 4-5.

A herd of Galloway cattle, owned by George Bernard of this city, has been sent to Denver to contest in the stock show this next week. Mr. Bernard is a successful exhibitor and expects to add a long string of ribbons to his already champion collection.

A GIANT OF THE RING WITH A HEART

Jack Johnson, Champion Heavyweight of the World, and His Mother.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Mrs. Tina Johnson, mother of Jack Johnson, the heavyweight champion of the ring, is the happiest colored woman in the world today. This woman who gave to the world a man of iron nerves and sinews of steel, this woman who has been lifted from poverty to an aristocratic social station among colored people, this woman who is more interested in the result of the fight with Jim Jeffries next July than any fight fan in the world, is living in a new $11,000 home at 3344 Wabash avenue. When Johnson comes home he drives up to the $11,000 house in a $10,000 automobile, gets out of his machine and walks into the mahogany vestibule. He removes a mink lined overcoat and a seal skin cap and embraces his [illegible] walks into the living room and kisses his 6-year-old son, who is playing with a toy $10 automobile. He walks up the walnut stairway to his wife's room, greets her and returns to the drawing room to talk with the newspaper men. Then he goes out in the kitchen and opens up his $150 range, where an excellent roast is waiting for him. Dinner is served and the champion is ready for an evening of comfort. This is the brief story of Jack Johnson's home life since he has located in Chicago.

EVERYBODY TO BE RICH 200 YEARS FROM NOW

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Thomas A. Edison has taken a peep into the future and prophesies that the world will be a much better one, particularly for the poor man, 200 years from now. In an interview, published here today, he says:

"In 2110, by the cheapening of commodities, the ordinary laborer will live as well as a man does now with $200,000 annual income. The work day will be eight hours or less.

"Clothes will be so cheap that every young woman will be able to follow the fashions promptly, and there will be plenty of fashions."

STATE FARMERS CONGRESS

FORT COLLINS, Jan. 6.—The State Farmers congress, which effected preliminary organization today, will organize a permanent advisory committee comprising one member from each branch of industry. James D. Husted of Denver, president of the Colorado Cattle and Horse Growers association, will be made permanent chairman of the congress.

REFUSES TO INDORSE SHIP SUBSIDY MEASURE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The New York chamber of commerce today refused to indorse any measure for the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine to which is attached a provision for ship subsidy.

Resolutions were adopted "emphatically favoring the rehabilitation of the American merchant marine," but the chamber refused to urge on Congress "liberal provisions" for the immediate establishment of American-owned steamer lines.

SURVIVES FALL DOWN MINE STOPE

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 6.—C. R. Elliott, a miner on the Gold King, fell 25 feet down a stope tonight and escaped with no more serious injuries than a few scalp wounds. He was digging rock, when one fell from overhead and narrowly missed him, broke the plank on which he was standing, and let him fall to the bottom.

WHAT ABOUT PAVING?

MAKE CIVIL SERVICE EFFECTIVE.

THE object of civil service is to base public ...ointments on the merit system. If it is to be ...ive it must be supported by a law which will ...le the commissioners to keep politics in the ...kground and efficiency in the fore. THE VALUE OF THE FARMS.

THE Orange Judd Farmer, an agricultural pub...n, has completed what is claimed to be a ...al investigation of farm interests throughout ...nited States Its figures concern the number ...arms and their value, and the value of farm ...ts, and comparisons are made showing the ...in recent years. In the United States there ...w about three times as many farms as in ...and 1,400,000 more than in 1890 This gain ...ially noticeable in the Western group of ...the increase in the number of farms in the ...de amounting to 100 per cent

...ease in farm values is even more re...le. In 1850 the value of American farms was given as four billion dollars, and in 1910 it is placed at thirty billions A gain of ten billion is credited to the last decade, although it is notable that during the decade from 1850 to 1900 the gain was only four billions.

Similar prodigious strides are to be observed in the figures showing the value of farm products. The amount on January 1, 1910 is given as $8.545,-000,000, as compared with $4,795,000,000 in 1900 and $2,460,000,000 in 1890.

The agricultural growth of the United States is one of the wonders of the modern world, and this is why the annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture always makes as interesting reading as if it were fiction instead of statistics The farmer is often referred to as the backbone of the nation, and when we consider how completely our national prosperity rests on his achievement it is plain that this designation is not misapplied

But nothing is easier than to draw wrong conclusions from these statistics Figures showing the annual value of our principal crops are so stupendous that one is likely to regard this production as sufficient to guarantee the stability of the nation for all time. But the fact is that consumption increases so much faster than production that the day is not far distant when America will have no grain left for export "James J. Hill, the greatest railroad man in the country and a recognized authority on this subject, has recently contributed to The World's Work Magazine an article in which this contention is set forth conclusively Our production of foodstuffs has increased so rapidly simply because of the vast amount of new land which could constantly be brought under cultivation but these conditions no longer prevail and if the American agriculturist is to continue to increase his production he will have to resort to intensive farming In the future the value of the output will not be so much a matter of the acreage under cultivation as of the average yield per acre and this is a subject concerning which America must learn an important lesson from the experience of other nations

THE PRICE OF COAL.

To the Editor of The Gazette

A few days ago I saw in your paper that there was some talk about advancing the price of coal to $4 a ton. I mined coal at one time near this city. I paid $1 a ton of 2 000 pounds for digging, and retailed at $2 50 a ton. These were the prevailing prices at that time At the present time the coal operators near this city pay for pick mining of coal 45 cents, and one mine only pays 42 cents a ton. The miners at this mine may be receiving 45 cents now, but if they are the price has been advanced recently Machine mined coal is paid for at the rate of 32½ cents a ton

These machines undercut the seam of coal, then it is the duty of the miner to drill holes and blast it down with powder and fuse purchased from the coal company The miner pays the sum of $2 50 a keg of 24 pounds of powder, and 50 cents for a roll of fuse To determine as nearly as possible the actual price a miner receives for producing a ton of coal I must first take into consideration the enormous quantity he produces for 2,000 pounds and then the powder oil and fuse I believe I am safe, for this discrepancy and expense, to discount the above prices at least 10 cents a ton. This would leave the miner for one ton of hand produced coal 35 cents and 22 1-3 cents for machine coal

In producing this machine coal the human machine has to do most of the work I am giving you these figures, dear reader, so that you will see how badly the coal trust needs $4 a ton When coal was advanced in price here about three years ago one company reduced the price of hand mining from 50 cents a ton to 42 cents The other coal companies in this locality paid 55 cents They did not cut the price and are still paying this rate The price of machine mining very likely would have been reduced also but for the fact that it would have been impossible for any one to exist on any less

The state law allows the miners the privilege of a representative at the mine scales to see that their coal is weighed honestly Some time ago the miners of one of the mines north of this city appointed a man from their number for this purpose But the employes who were responsible for his installation were gradually rooted out Their places were then filled by men who would not contribute to the man who was placed in the position to see that justice in weights was given If a miner in these mines north of this city gets tired of his job and wants a vacation very badly he can have it pretty quick by starting a crusade for a check weighman Take my guarantee he will not be employed there very long

I see in your paper that Mayor Avery has a suspicion that there is a coal trust or a combine of coal dealers in this city to stop competition I think he is about right If this matter is investigated I would like to see it done thoroughly Find out their united efforts in the treatment of their employes By the evidence thus gained it will not be a hard matter to determine the method they pursue in the sale of their products From what I have written the reader will see how the coal operators impose on the miners At the present selling price of coal they could well afford to pay double the price for digging they are now paying and then receive a good big round sum as interest on their investment The miners are entitled to good compensation for their hard, dangerous labor and it is my opinion that if the consumers of Colorado Springs coal knew it to be a fact that they were getting a small share of the now high price of coal they would not object The chances are, if the price of coal advanced 25 cents more on the ton the men who risk their lives daily would not receive any more for digging it Maybe as in the case I have mentioned when coal advanced before, they would get another reduction

I could write further on this subject but I fear I have used too much space at this time If a reply to this letter requires more information from me I will surely give it I know something of the methods of production here, and you dear reader, know something about the payments of consumption A CONSUMER.

"DIXIE."

From the Chicago Record Herald

The chief of the division of music of the Library of Congress has announced that "Dixie is the first of American songs in "patriotic popularity" Perhaps its claim will be contested on sectional grounds but it had a very innocent origin, and it has given most pleasing evidence of the return of good feeling since the close of the war of the rebellion Wherever it is sung or played in the northern states it calls forth expressions of friendliness toward the south The applause with which it is greeted proves beyond doubt that the old animosities belong completely to the past and that there is the strongest desire for a new and more perfect union. It appeals to every generous impulse and the response is as cordial as anyone could desire

No other song has quite the same effect in a patriotic sense and aside from the association it has all the elements of popularity The lively air would set any crowd in motion and stir the enthusiasm of any race or nationality. It is for every tribe and every ... But it is in the southern ... ern states to be heard at its best. The true southerner ... it ... and he alone can instruct the world in all its possibilities.

UNCLE WALT'S DENVER ... WHERE THE ... GROWS

When a damsel has a steady who's a pretty decent man, who shows a disposition to perform the best he can, who is shy of sinful habits, and whose bosom holds no guile, and who labors in the vineyard with a gay and cheerful smile, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll do a seraph stunt, when they've stood up at the altar with the preacher-man in front, and she shouldn't spring a lecture when he comes around to court for a man is only human, and his wings are pretty short. When a maiden has a lover who is surely making good, who is winning admiration, who is sawing lots of wood, then she shouldn't make him promise that he'll be an angel boy when the wedding ceremony ushers in a life of joy she should murmur He's a daisy, and we'll take things as they come, for a man is only human, and his halo's on the bum"

ADVICE TO A DAMSEL.

WALT MASON.

Copyright 1909, by George Matthew Adams.

The Daily Chit-Chat

Is it wrong to be unconventional?

That is a question which in one form or another and usually accompanied by a concrete example, I very frequently receive from my feminine readers.

And I always give but one answer

"That depends."

Conventions are the crystallization of the ideas of the majority as to what is right and best

When you defy a convention you set yourself up as a better judge of what is right and best in that particular than the rest of the world

Perhaps you are

It has occasionally happened in the course of history that one man was right and the rest of the world wrong

But the rest of the world does not like to be told so and for that reason unpopularity is apt to be the reward of anyone who tells it so in this way

The other day I saw a woman sitting in a street car calmly working upon a piece of embroidery

Now as every one knows it is customary to talk, read or even study on a street car, but according to the idea of the majority it is not allowable to sew and therefore most of the people who saw that woman sewing resented her defiance of their judgment by promptly stigmatizing her as a freak.

There was no reason on earth why she didn't have just as much right to sew as the women at the other end of the car had to read, but I wondered if the pleasure she would get from those few moments would pay her for the discomfort of being regarded as a freak by her neighbors

Is the pleasure or profit you get from disregarding any convention sufficient to outweigh for you the crowd's displeasure?

That is what anyone ought to decide before he defies any convention

And that is what many people fail to do

They defy conventions and then they bewail the fact that they are frowned upon by those who approve of those conventions.

That is inconsistent

One should always reckon to see if the game be worth the candle before he begins to play, but having once decided that it is, one should never protest when one is asked to pay

And then, the wisdom of defying conventions depends upon a more important thing than your ability to brave the crowd's displeasure

It also depends upon whether you are entirely sure that you are right in judging the convention a worthless and outgrown thing

Convention is the path the majority prefer to follow

You see a short cut apparently across a pleasant field and over a safe little bridge

But if it is so safe and pleasant a path, and a short cut into the bargain, why do so few people care to tread it?

"Is it always wrong on a journey to talk to a man to whom I have not been introduced?" girls sometimes write and ask me.

The form of introduction is the path of conventionality, and if short cuts are just as safe and pleasant is it not strange that so few nice people take them?

There are of course, people great enough to transcend conventions

Great enough to make the crowd admire and even imitate their eccentricities instead of scoring them

Great enough to cut away from all forms and decide for themselves what is right

But these are the rare souls, and unless you are absolutely sure that you are a rare soul, I think you will find that keeping fairly close to most of society's conventions is, on the whole, the safest and pleasantest way.

A NICE QUESTION.

From Life

Our esteemed contemporary, the Christian Science Monitor published in Boston is running a column of verse and jokes daily

Without prejudice one way or another we are moved to these reflections

Are the jokes jokes and is the verse verse? Or are we to think they are jokes and think it is verse"

There being no material things then there can be no such thing as a joke or a verse in the concrete

Yet if we merely think they are jokes or it is verse, then are they or is it?

If they are and it is, how can they exist?

If we simply think they are and it is —But the question becomes involved

Is the column of verse and humor reading matter? Or is reading matter a manifestation of mind?

Are we to think that if we think it it, it is, or that if we think it is what we think of it, then it isn't?

PAPER MONEY.

From Harper's Weekly

The only paper money that is accepted practically all over the globe is not "money" at all, but the notes of the Bank of England. These notes are simply printed in black ink on Irish linen water-lined paper, plain white, with ragged edges. The reason that a badly soiled Bank of England note is rarely seen is that notes which in any way find their way back to the bank are immediately cancelled and new ones are issued The notes of the Banque de France are made of white water-lined paper printed in black and white with numerous mythological and allegorical figures. They are in denominations of from 25 francs to 100 francs.

Bank of England notes are of a somewhat unhandy size five by eight inches South American currency resembles the bills of the United States except that cinnamon brown and slate blue are the prevailing colors German currency is printed in green and black the notes being in denominations of from five to 1 000 marks The 100-mark bills are printed on silk fibre paper

It takes an expert of a native to distinguish a Chinese bill from a laundry ticket if the bill is of low denomination, or a firecracker label if for a large amount the print being in red on white or yellow on red with much gilt and gorgeous devices Italian notes are of all sizes shapes and colors The smaller bills five and ten lire, are printed on white paper in pink, blue and carmine inks

THE WIDOW AND HER CHILDREN THREE

The widow and her Children Three
With studied self-complacency,
In ... phalanx, four abreast,
Are on parade in Sunday best

The boy's thin coat full scant of sleeve,
Would earn a prize at make believe
It's turned and froard, darned with care,
Each patch disfigured, masked each tear

And Jennie's frock the hem let down
Extends to last extreme the gown,
While front and back have been reversed,
Thus breeding doubt which looks the worst

The Widow's hat is rearward miles
Of present mode, prevailing styles
To change inured and slow to yield,
Somewhat awry, still keeps afield

Her dress once dyed a jetty black
To native hues still ponders back
The dye at war with colors gay
Has compromised on rusty gray

Alert for each cold curious eye
With rank close formed, they cluster by,
Each clings to each and hand in hand,
Their way they thread a brazen band

And each imposter, aping ease
Tho' faint of heart and weak of knees
May yet of glory take some share
They say the meek ... shall wear

This army valiant faces odds
And serves where dire compulsion prods,
Tho few their arms with flag unfurled
They make their stand against a world

Tho grim the prospect stern their lot
Each small achievement dearly bought
Tho weak they yet may turn the tide
The God of Battles takes their side

There's many a captain leads his host
Where nations strike where states are lost
Excels not still in victory
The Widow and her Children Three.

WHERE FISH HAVE SOULS.

The State Fish Hatcheries Infant Mortality Among Trout a Problem

From the Philadelphia North American

One of Colorado's several fish hatcheries is located at Durango, on the River of Lost Souls or, as the Spaniard has it 'Rio de Las Animas Perdidas which means the same thing Animas valley is now the most ... region of big red apples and varicolored fishes but Navajo Indian tradition invests it with a roman... ...

The Navajos say that the cliff dwellers who formerly inhabited the Animas and Mancos valleys were exterminated by their ancestors, who "came down from the north country" some considerable time ago—when Perin's peak was a muck hole in the primitive morass

A feature of the conquest less rare in ancient times was the transmigration of the spirits of the conquered dead, for the soulful trout and the dreamy sucker became the tabernacles for the departing hosts of the slain Every time the unthinking tourist lands a speckled beauty he deprives the soul of an Aztec of his tabernacle

To ameliorate this injustice the state is turning out speckled rainbow united salmon flashed, and steel headed tabernacles for transmigrated souls in annual batches of two millions Anyway the Navajos will not eat fish because of a superstition, and as a 'Hibbie' is the only edible thing a Navajo will not steal the state is propagating trout

A two months old trout is a hardy customer full of guile and the ability to take care of himself though devoid of moral sense, but it is hard to conceive of a more helpless youngster than the troutling a few hours old Deserted by his mother, esteemed by his male parent chiefly as a delicate morsel preyed upon by every aquatic marauder the wonder is that one of him survives Indeed it is believed that an average of only six out of the little family of 2 000 spawned by a healthy mother in the state of nature live to the age of discretion The artificial method of trout propagation eliminates most of the natural enemies of the young fry

The parent stock are kept in a pool until spawn is wanted when they are removed by means of a net The spawn is placed on perforated sheets of metal immediately after being secured, and set in the water trough The stream of water circulating through this trough is accurately regulated for a few days both as to volume and temperature (the latter by the admixture of the warmer city water), until the mass of jelly-like globules becomes a school of little wriggly fishes animated rainbows or hungry cold chisels, salmon trout, or just plain trout—for the Durango hatchery turns out four varieties probably by utilizing parent stock of as many breeds At the age of two months or less the fry are distributed among a dozen clear springs in southern Colorado

WHEN THE SHOE PINCHES.

From the Chicago Tribune

When you encounter a raging woman or are a pitying bystander while she is on a rampage, before you placard the rager as a lunacy candidate look at her feet.

Many an ancestor gets discredit for the bad dispositions of descendants when the shoemaker is at fault Put a girl of cloying sweetness in a pair of shoes two sizes too small and she shows up vinegarish

If Griselda's shoes had pinched or Moses had worn boots that drew our ages old models of patience would have been wanting

We can smile through fire and calamity, and heartbreak, we can keep sweet when the freshly dressed son falls in the mud and the daughter slashes her best hat, we can even manage to be agreeable when country cousins drop in at moments unpsychological but where is the woman who can keep her temper when her feet hurt?

Most of us slander our digestions, or our nerves or our woes, when we feel within us the risings of wrath Looking to your footgear or your foot health for cause, you will more often find it, One of the big nerve specialists of the country says half the bad temper and nervous irritability of the day is caused by shoes that do not fit.

Nor is the link of the shoe in the temper hard to spot Stopped circulation means twingeing corns, swollen ankles, possibly ingrowing nails and bunions and certainly red nose and hands Is any one of these not a righteous cause for rage?

The unrighteous cause for which there is no condoning, is the first offense Woman need not wear shoes too small If she does it is through vanity or undue trustingness of her shoemaker or through false economy when fooled into the wrong number

Better paddle around in arctics, or throw away twelve dollar patent leathers, than wear shoes that pinch the feet and prod the temper Better at any cost have shoes that fit than throw a fit of rage from too tight shoe leather

The divorce mill would lose half its grist if both parties to the dispute were particular to wear comfortable, nonetemper stirring shoes There is no shoe that will hold both a foot too big and a sweet tempered woman

5-POUND NOTES FORGED.

Russian Banks Victims of Counterfeit British Money

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger

LONDON —The banks of St Petersburg and Moscow have been the victims of the forgery of British £5 notes and already more than fifty of these have come back to the Bank of England One Moscow bank has been victimized to the extent of $75,000

It is not known how many forged notes have been put in circulation where they were made

The notes which have come to hand are clever imitations of real notes but are not calculated to deceive experienced bankers or money changers Casual holders of English banknotes might easily take the notes for genuine They have a water mark like the real notes but the paper is thicker and rougher, and the printing not quite so clear

Forgeries of Bank of England notes have been infrequent of late years An occasional forged note usually traced with pen and ink finds its way to the Bank of England But the process is slow and unremunerative

In 1904 a man was convicted of forging a number of notes by tracing them through glass

What the Press Agents Say

"THREE TWINS" TOMORROW.

The "Three Twins," which comes to the Opera House tomorrow evening only with the full prestige of a metropolitan success behind it, having run five months in Chicago at the Whitney opera house, and one year in New York at the Herald Square theater, and which received the unanimous praise of the entire New York press as being one of the smartest musical plays produced in years. Joseph M. Gaites has spared no expense in the mounting of this attraction, costuming is gorgeous, scenery magnificent, and the electrical effects bewildering, and the finale of the first act is said to be one of the most elaborate pieces of mechanism that has ever been placed on the stage. It shows an aerial circular swing with six beautiful show girls in baskets and while revolving the swing is illuminated with 2,000 incandescent lights, making a gorgeous spectacle.

The cast is headed by Victor Morley, who was identified with Richard Carle, in "The Spring Chicken," and created the title role in the "Three Twins" when the show was first produced in the Whitney opera house in Chicago. Others are W. H. Woodside, Bessie Clifford, Frank Smith, E. P. Bower, Florenz Kolb, Ida Poetz and a chorus of 60 people.

Prices are 50 cents, $1, $1.50 and $2.

"WILDFIRE" SEATS.

Laughter is the constant accompaniment of that great racing comedy, "Wildfire," in which Lillian Russell's only rival and successor, Pauline Hall, "the beautiful," and Will Archie, the original "Bud," will appear at the Opera House on Monday evening. Some critics declare that "Wildfire" is the best racing play ever written—better even than "In Old Kentucky" and "Checkers." Be it as it may, "Wildfire" is a comedy that is a comedy—filled with genuine fun, running over with laughs and with a strong, convincing plot that keeps the interest piqued to the very end. It is scarcely surprising that "Wildfire" should be in a class by itself, when one considers its distinguished source. George Broadhurst, author of "The Man of the Hour" and other high-class successes, and George V. Hobart, a humorist known to the laughing world as "Dinkelspiel," and also the author of Marie Cahill's present popular hit, "The Boys and Betty," are the writers of "Wildfire." The hand of Mr. Broadhurst can be identified in the strength of the plot and the colorful atmosphere, while Hobart's inimitable slang drops aptly from the mouth of that great character hit, "Bud," the stable boy. As in the case of her predecessor, Lillian Russell, the many friends of Pauline Hall doubted her wisdom in turning her back upon the field of lyrics, where she has so long stood at the top, to venture into straight comedy, doubted until the night of her first appearance. Her immediate success was a distinct triumph for the judgment of Manager Harry Doel Parker in selecting her for the role of the widow.

Seats now selling. Prices 50 cents, 75 cents, $1.00 and $1.50.

CLIPPER QUARTET AT OPERA HOUSE

The famous Clipper quartet which has so long been the big headliner of the Orpheum road show and which is now being heard for the first time outside the big metropolitan cities, will be one of the big acts which Manager Nye will present at the Opera House next Tuesday and Wednesday with three performances each day. This Clipper organisation is named after the well-known theatrical journal, the New York Clipper, with its express permission. The fact that it is one of the feature Orpheum numbers is sufficient guarantee of its worth.

Although not ready to announce his entire bill yet, Manager Nye says he has secured for these two days five of the strongest acts he has yet had. Miss Carrie McManus will positively appear at each and every performance. The regular vaudeville prices will be charged.

"A GIRL AT THE HELM."

Manager Nye succeeded in securing H. H. Frazee's latest and best musical play, "A Girl at the Helm," which will be seen here for the first time at the Opera House, Thursday evenig.

This musical classic enjoyed a stay in Chicago of six months and became as popular as the other La Salle theater successes, including "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "A Knight for a Day," "The Girl Question," "Cinderella," etc. Mr. Frazee has supplied an exceptional and carefully selected cast headed by Billy Clifford, assisted by 60 associate players, comely girls, some big, some little, how[illegible] whether big or little it is said they all can, and do sing and dance. The last two essentials of course are the main spring of all musical comedies.

PAULINE HALL IN "WILDFIRE"

Which Comedy, With Will Archie as Stable Boy, Will Appear at the Opera House Next Monday Evening.

A review of "A Girl at the Helm" would reach enormous proportions if one were to go over every portion of the piece. In a limited space it is only possible to hit the "high spots." The grand finale of the first act (there are but two acts) and the opening of the second act are the highest spots in the production. The music in the first act finale reaches the dignity of real opera and the chorus even attains to the almost sacred worth of the ancient Greek chorus, when it elucidates and gives warning of a grand finale. There are spectacular dances in profusion, one of them representing the various forms of gambling from roulette to the turf, the latter being represented by several broilers dressed as jockeys and running around the stage jumping over hurdles. In number three autos are rigged up during a dark instant and the incandescents come on showing three machines filled with show girls and raising a cloud of dust while horns blow and lights flare.

CERTAINLY SOME SHOW AT THE MAJESTIC THIS WEEK

"It is certainly some show." That is the way patrons of the Majestic regard this week's bill which has been drawing large houses at every performance despite the exceptionally cold and stormy weather. They don't all use exactly that language, but the phrase, nevertheless accurately represents the way they feel.

There is a reason for it. The show is full of good laughs, full of good singing, full of good jokes. It's a good show all the way through, not in spots. Barney Williams starts off with a monologue, some songs and a slight-of-hand exhibition which everybody likes. Edith Haney sings a quartet of character songs which are catchy and clever and her charming and dainty appearance makes her a favorite with all. Killian and Moore have a corking good line of dialogue and some songs which are new and entertaining. Moreover, they have excellent voices and know how to use them.

The Majestiscope has one of the most popular series of pictures ever presented, the story, entitled "A Daughter of the Stars," being one of [illegible] frontier life and intensely exciting, as well as rich in emotional elements. Finally, as a great climax, is the elaborately-staged and costumed act of "A Bunch of Kids," presented by a company of nine, headed by Will J. Harris and Harry I. Robinson, the noted song writers. This act alone would satisfy the average audience that it had received its money's worth.

COLD SNAP HAMPERS MINING OPERATIONS

Work on Dumps, and Surface Prospecting Suspended in Cripple Creek District.

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Jan. 6.—Mining operations are being seriously hampered by the excessive cold weather and all work on dumps and surface prospecting have been necessarily abandoned until the cold snap abates. Air pipe lines extending across the country from the compressor plants furnishing air to lessees are practically out of commission and a number of machine men have been laid off temporarily. Little ore is moving, but the teams are not idle, as work is found for both teams and drivers hauling coal to mines and residences. At no hour today did the thermometer register much above zero and at Altman at noon the register was from 8 to 12 degrees below according to exposure.

The El Paso Gold King mine of the Gold King Mining company, active under lease to Owen Roberts of this city, is making almost daily shipments and from seven to ten cars is the present weekly production. Practically every level from the first to the tenth, 1,000 feet below surface, is producing, and the ore is returning values in carload lots of from one to as high as eight ounces gold to the ton. The lessee has power to sublease and 12 to 14 sets of sublessee are engaged in prospecting or in the development of ore bodies already exposed. In all between 40 and 50 miners are employed on the property.

The sale of the property of the Golden Dale Mining and Milling company, the Alsa R. lode mining claim on Raven Hill, under a writ of execution issued from the district court of El Paso county, has been adjourned by the sheriff until Saturday, January 29. The writ was secured by F. H. Pettingell of Colorado Springs to satisfy a judgment in the sum of $3,295 with costs.

LEADVILLE GOLD STRIKE IMPROVES

LEADVILLE, Colo., Jan. 6.—The strike made in the St. Louis tunnel a few weeks ago is growing in importance. Manager J. R. The gold strike on the foot wall runs 15 ounces of gold to the ton. The main body will run from 60 to 69 ounces of gold, 265 ounces of silver and 45 per cent of lead.

TO DISCIPLINE BROKERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—The aftermath of the startling ascension of 30 points in Rock Island common stock and its precipitate fall again to its starting price, all within 15 minutes, promises interesting developments, involving high financial interests. The stock exchange committee which investigated the Rock Island episode will report Wednesday, and it was commonly heard on the stock exchange floor today that one brokerage house may get a year's suspension. Large financial interests are said to be on the trail of the offenders.

RECORD PRICE FOR HOGS.

The American ice plant at Smyrna, Del., has to compete with mountaineers who bring to the city snow packed in [illegible]. The winter snow is carefully packed in trenches and covered with pine [illegible]. The ice company shaves its artificial ice to make it look like the snow, which is preferred by many of the conservative Turks although it costs four times as much.

TURMOIL IS QUIETED ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Sentiment Unsettled and Dealings Light—Rock Island Movement Closely Watched.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—A shrinkage in the dealings in stocks accompanied the quieting of the turmoil in which the market has moved this week. The early market reflected some remaining unsettlement and there was some recurrence at the last. Rock Island was watched closely as a possible further disturbing factor and its weak decline started the general market backward after the opening advance in sympathy. The manner in which the activity died out on the recovery indicated a lack of conviction in the buying and left sentiment uncertain. The hesitation was partly due to a report, afterwards corrected, that the presentation of the President's special message to Congress would be delayed until Monday.

The distribution of the advance copies of the message brought into Wall Street offices the usual inkling of its contents. The knowledge thus secured brought with it professions of confidence that the effect of the reading of the full message would prove reassuring to corporation and capital interests which had been apprehensive.

The bank of England official discount rate was expected to come down, as it did, but the event was a factor in the early advance in stocks. Further consideration of the conditions modified favorable view of the money outlook to some extent. It is pointed out that the obligations incurred by the London money market to the bank of France in order to strengthen the position in the fall are now maturing and are likely to involve a movement of gold from London to Paris and probably increased pressure in New York. The more active demand for time money in New York continues but the call loan market showed a relaxing tendency again today.

The heavy liquidation in the cotton market had the effect of releasing funds to the money market.

Copper industrials were especially benefited by the reports that the shut down of the works in Montana on account of the railroad switchmen's strike had been averted. The heavy storm damage to the railroads and the obstruction of traffic weighed on values of some of the railroad stocks.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value $3,696,000.

United States bonds were unchanged on call.

DEER FEED WITH CATTLE

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Jan. 6.—Ranchmen from the Black mountain district who arrived yesterday for supplies, report seeing a band of 250 or 300 elk Friday. They said that the snow is deep and they had great difficulty in getting here.

Many deer are seen feeding with cattle near the corrals, where hay is thrown out, as the snow has driven them out of the mountains.

NEW HIGH RECORDS FOR WHEAT AND CORN

Grain Prices Advance on Chicago Board With Lively Trading in All the Pits.

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Grain prices advanced all along the line here today, May wheat and all corn futures establishing new records for the crop. Provisions showed a healthy advance responsive to continued scarcity of live hogs.

The wheat pit was nervous and prices ranged from 3-8 below to 1 1-8 above yesterday's closing figures. May touched 1.14 7-8, the record price for the crop, and receded only a trifle, the final quotations being 1.14 1-8@1.14 3-8, which was 3-4@1 7-8 higher.

The corn pit was excited and bullish sentiment reached fever heat, advancing prices 1 1-2 from the low point, May closing at 68 3-8 and the more distant futures at 67.

The oats market, while not so spectacular as the corn pit, also showed consistent strength. The range was from 3-8 to 1 cent in the several futures. May closed at 47 7-8@48, 3-4@7-8 higher.

In provisions pork was 17 1-2 to 22 higher; lard unchanged to 12 1-2 higher and ribs 10 to 12 1-2 higher.

THE MARYLAND TOMATO.

From the Baltimore Sun

'Tis an ill wind that blows nobody good—a platitude, of course, but one that finds constant corroboration and support in the stern facts of existence. Consider, for instance, the recent drouth. It turned the countryside into dusty steppes and drove the farmers to pessimism and agnosticism, but all the while it was making the Maryland tomato a perfect fruit. When the clouds leak copiously the tomato is apt to grow watery and emaciated, but when rain is sparing it grows firm and nourishing. The tomatoes of the present season are the best known for years. They are poor in water but extraordinarily rich in foodstuff. The modern tomato, with its round, rosy cheeks and sweet, cool heart, is essentially a Maryland product. Its wild grandparent was known and esteemed by the native Indians of the state as far back as the year 2500 B. C. When the white settlers came they began to improve upon the aboriginal methods of cultivating it, and soon it was lifted from its original state as a lowly pot herb and placed among the heaven-sent delicatessen. Today the tomato asks no odds of any other fruit or vegetable. As it is grown upon the eastern shore it is as perfect as the grapes of Calabria or the apples of the Hesperides. The most accomplished tomatologists in the world have their laboratories on the shore.

About 20,000 tons of salt herrings have been shipped to the orient this season from Nanaimo, British Columbia by Japanese firms.

AUSTRIA SEEKS TO FIND WORK FOR UNEMPLOYED

Government Runs Bureaus for Citizens Throughout Empire.

From the Washington Star.

Discussing the finding of work for the unemployed in Austria, Franz Leopold Hiller, a banker of Vienna, said that one of the greatest charitable institutions in the world has just recently been perfected in Austria.

"For centuries the Austrian government has recognized the fact," continued the Viennese financier, "that a man, through no fault of his own, may be unemployed, and that, at the same time, there may be many willing and eager to give him employment. The state has recognized it as its duty to bring the two together.

"For this purpose every small town in Austria has at least one employment bureau," added Hiller. "The larger towns have several, which are connected with one another by telephone. In nearly every town there is also a government workshop, and in the village a government farm, also under the labor department. Any man or woman who is out of work may go to the nearest bureau and learn in the course of a few minutes what chances he or she has of finding a job on that day. Those in need of employment register at the nearest bureau, and their desires are telephoned throughout the district. If no place offers, the work seeker may spend the day in the waiting room of the bureau or be sent to the government workshop or farm, as the case may be, where he works for his board and lodging until he is informed that a place is waiting for him.

Idleness a Crime.

"When once a place has been found for the worker he may not leave it for another without giving satisfactory reasons to the bureau superintendent. For the [illegible], if he be a [illegible] able man, [illegible] advantage. When one strives in a town one makes his way to the bureau and registers. If there is no work for him ready at hand, he is [illegible] with a good supper, a bath and a comfortable bed. If work still be not forthcoming, he may either continue his journey to the next town or be [illegible] to the workshop or farm. In Austria idleness, at the expense of society, is [illegible] a crime. The maximum sentence for loafing or begging is three years in the workhouse. The duration of the sentence, however, may be [illegible] the moment the prisoner satisfies the authorities that he has mended his ways."

"Answering Your Ad in the Gazette"

Many a letter commencing with these words has led to the betterment of the writer. Perhaps it meant a better position, a cozier room at cheaper rent, a good boarding place. Perhaps it meant light, congenial work for a cripple who could not leave home, or a chance for the widow to rent her spare room at a good price. Maybe it found a safe investment for hard earned savings, or a dress for the woman who could not afford to buy a new one. Then again it might have been an opportunity for the tailor to exchange his services for dentistry.

Matrimonial Agencies a Menace

Federal Authorities at Chicago Place Them Under Ban After Investigation of Their Workings—Victims Constitute a Sad Procession.

THE investigation into the workings of the so-called marriage bureaus and matrimonial agencies, which was begun by the federal authorities at Chicago at the time of the celebrated "Marion Grey case," has been concluded and some of the results made public. According to the facts revealed, hundreds of thousands of dollars are taken from unsuspecting persons every year through the wiles of these agencies, which are branded as a "menace to the American people" by Assistant United States District Attorney Shirer of Chicago, who conducted the investigation for the government.

"The average citizen considers the matrimonial agency as a great joke," says Mr. Shirer, in an article in the Woman's World magazine of Chicago, in which he exposes the business. "But is it a joke? Is anything a joke which every year robs the poor and the struggling of hundreds of thousands of dollars, and which debases and drags to the dust of tawdry commercialism the ideals of love and marriage?

"This is practically what the marriage bureau fake does—and he does it with a defilement which is nauseating to the person of wholesome and refined sensibilities. Here is what actually happened in the United States court, presided over by Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, in the trial of Marion Grey.

One of the Witnesses.

"One of the witnesses for the government may be known in this article as Roscoe Conklin Mannors. He was a paralytic; and the fact that he had long black hair and rather striking features, made his appearance all the more striking and dramatic. His pilgrimage to the witness chair was slow, shambling and pitiful beyond words. A thrill of astonishment and repulsion swept over the jury and all the spectators. After he had given his name and address, he was asked:

"'What is your business?'

"'Telegraph operator.'

"'Where do you work?'"

"'In southern Illinois."

"'Have you a good deal of property?'"

"'No, not a dollar's worth.'

"'Do you make a good living for yourself?'"

"'I live with my mother."

"'Did you join this agency—the Searchlight club?'

"'Yes, sir.'

"'Whom did you finally write to as a result of the services of this bureau?'

"'To Evelyn Moore.' (I have here substituted a fictitious name.)

"Then I offered in evidence a bundle of letters to Evelyn Moore which he identified as those which he had written to her. In spite of his paralysis he was a good penman, as most telegraph operators are. What is more, he had naturally a fine mind, not devoid of a well-developed vein of sentiment. It is hardly too much to call those letters from this repulsive human derelict models of love making. But as they were read in court with the eyes of every person in the room fixed upon his pallid face and withered form, the effect was tremendous. To conceive of this tottering piece of human wreckage as a lover and as the author of the endearing sentiments expressed in the letters, clearly produced an effect of repulsive horror in the mind of every spectator in the crowded court room.

A Contrast.

"The moment his testimony was concluded and he was told to retire from the room, the name of Evelyn Moore was called; and the bailiff conducted her up the aisle down which the paralytic was pursuing his shambling way.

"They met and passed about midway in the court room, under the astounded eyes of all present- he the unsteady ghost of d[illegible] and shattered manhood, the cripple tottering on his crutches, the paralytic who could not lift his lifeless limb from the floor - she, in the flush of girlhood, a miss of 16, a flush of excitement and perhaps of shame, in her cheeks, and her eyes downcast, a country girl as wholesome and as pretty as a red cheeked apple! All could see from their manner as they passed that neither had the slightest idea of identity of the other. Perhaps such a contrast was never seen in a court room before - certainly not [illegible] the possible relation of the two [illegible] are considered. The effect upon the spectators was almost beyond description; one could almost actually see them shudder.

Procession of Unfortunates.

"The appearance of the other witnesses who were also victims of this matrimonial agency confirmed and supported the impression made by the dramatic meeting of the fresh little country girl from Ohio and the paralytic telegraph operator from Illinois. Among them were numerous detectives, human derelicts left behind in the ordinary processes of life. This sad procession emphasized more than any amount of argument or testimony the fact that the marriage bureau, the "Cupid agency," finds a very considerable part of its support from those unfortunate human beings whose personal deficiencies rule them out of the ranks of possible suitors and make it impossible for them to find mates among those with whom they come in personal contact. Identify a list of the patrons of any matrimonial agency and you will most surely find a most startling proportion of cripples, deficients and derelicts without reasonable expectation of arousing in any normal human being of opposite sex any sentiment more tender than that of pity.

"So far as my observation extends all concerns of this kind make the same kind of a start and from the legal viewpoint this one feature is vitally important to the prosecutor who is seeking the conviction of one of these fakers—through the advertising agencies or directly they put out advertisements assuming that they are acting for some specific individual who has employed them to find a "mate," while as a matter of fact they have at the start no such clients. Invariably those advertisements are put out in pairs, that is to say, one which purports to come from a man and the other from a woman. A common form of wording is aftr this manner.

"'Lonely widow, wealthy, wants a good husband. No objections to a poor man.'

"Lonely bachelor of ample means would like to correspond with attractive and amiable young woman."

"At the time of inserting this advertisement the advertiser has in mind no person excepting the possible victim. The Cupid's agent represents no specific individual.

'Thus it will be seen that the whole basis of operations was to get as many victims of each sex as possible into the dragnet, put them in communication with each other and then let them 'fight it out' as best they might.

Only One Marriage.

"Only one instance do I recall in which an actual marriage took place. An angular, honest old Missourian, whose first wife had died, leaving 12 children, was placed in correspondence with a dressmaker in Texas. They soon discovered that they had been deceived by the matrimonial agency so far as riches, income and good looks were concerned, but the man knew that he needed someone to look after his brood of motherless children, and the woman knew that the day was not far distant when she could no longer earn a living by doing sewing for her neighbors and townspeople. Therefore they decided to marry.

"The Hon. Henry Dement, an old soldier, and at one time secretary of state for Illinois, was the postoffice inspector assigned to the task of looking up the witnesses and evidence for the prosecutions brought against matrimonial agencies in Chicago. His work took him to the homes of the victims of these schemers and he assures me that he did not find a single one in well-to-do circumstances; they were invariably poor.

$3,000 in Three Months.

"Another interesting statement which Inspector Dement makes to me, is this:

"I remember we got after one young woman who testified, on oath, that she started out in the matrimonial agency business by advertising in 80 papers, and in three months collected $3,000 from her victims. When required to show one wealthy person whoever engaged her to find a husband or wife, she could not do it, although given several weeks in which to do so. She did not know the residence of a single person represented by the photographs that she distributed."

HOUSE ASKS REASONS FOR SEARCH FOR ASTOR

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The House wants to know why the revenue cutter service was utilized to search for Colonel John Jacob Astor's yacht Nourmahal some months ago. For that reason it today adopted a resolution of Representative Hardwick calling for information on this subject. This resolution was opposed by Representative Mann of Illinois, who declared the resolution a reflection on the service and denied that the search was made for the missing yacht because her owner was a millionaire.

EXECUTE VENDETTA OF SECRET SOCIETY

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—Benedetti Cinonie, a prominent resident and wealthy clothier in the Italian colony, was shot to death by assassins' bullets as he lay asleep in his bedroom today. But a few feet away, his wife crouched in terror at the point of a revolver, powerless to warn the sleeping man.

The shooting occurred in the clothing store and residence of Cincene, 500 Oak street, in the heart of the Italian district.

The deed was the work of three men, who, from all appearances, were fulfilling the dread "vendetta" decree of a secret society. Threatening blackmail letters had been received by the merchant and ignored and his death had been promised.

TEST EIGHT-HOUR LAW

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 6.—Charles Manners, who has the contract for macadamizing city streets, is in trouble with the labor union. He made a rule that 12 loads constitute a day's work for a t[illegible]. The [illegible] to declare that 12 loads cannot be hauled in less than 10 or 12 hours and as eight hours constitute a day's work they have refused to obey the rule and gone on a strike. The trades assembly is back of the men in the present trouble and the eight-hour law will be given a test here.

London public schools taught more than 3,200 children to swim last year.

PRESIDENT APPOINTS DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Taft today nominated Cuno H. Rudolph and Gen. John A. Johnson, U. S. A., retired, both Republicans, as commissioners of the District of Columbia. The President ignored the custom of appointing one commissioner from the Democratic party.
